Japan Threatens To Land Troops in Troubled Zone—England Alarmed Over Events.

SITUATION SERIOUS, BUT UNDER CONTROL

Soviet Ambassador Denies His Country Is Responsible for Outbreak Among Students.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Manila, June 4.—With 300 marines aboard bound for Shanghai, the U. S. S. Jason departed from the Cavite naval station today. The gunboat Sacramento, now at Hong Kong, has been ordered to Shanghai also.

JAPAN THREATENS TO LAND TROOPS. London, June 4.—It is reported in diplomatic circles here, but not confirmed, that Japan has sent a note to the Chinese government threatening to land a larger Japanese force immediately in Shanghai unless order is restored. The report also says that Japan in her note warned China she would be forced to occupy Tientsin if conditions did not improve. Tientsin, in Shantung, was restored to the Chinese as a result of the Washington conference.

FIRE DEPARTMENT STRIKE IS FAILURE. Shanghai, June 4.—(Friday) (By the Associated Press.)—Shanghai was quiet this morning except for a few minor outbreaks. It was not the normal quiet, however.

Chinese police, meeting at the Chapel station, decided to strike at 11 p. m., but when the hour arrived, only a few of the 2,000 attached to the foreign settlement police department actually turned in their arms. It is believed that the force as a whole will remain on duty.

Efforts of agitators to force a strike of the Chinese manned fire department apparently failed.

Five were reported wounded in an outbreak in Pootung, a suburb just across the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's harbor. A mob was said to have attacked the mill of the Japan China Spinning and Weaving company, Ltd.

Japanese overseers on duty there resisted the mob and opened fire after the company's offices had been invaded. The Chinese constabulary later dispersed the crowd.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK As Seen by— Pierre Van Paassen

New York, June 4.—With the good weather coming on, New York proceeds to rope off many of its streets for the purpose of providing safe areas for the children and incidentally to provide space for the popular block parties.

Strings of electric lights are stretched across the street, a neighborhood orchestra is hired and no sooner has the sun been put to rest in Brooklyn navy yard, old and young have a try at interpreting the Charleston.

Besides supplying much-needed amusement and recreation, I think these block parties are a necessity in New York and any other American city because they help create a community life. People live their lives in an isolated manner here. Everybody for himself.

All nations have their community gatherings with the exception of America. Here your next-door neighbor glowers at you when you come down the elevator together.

The police department reported an unusual number of lost children over the week-end at Coney Island and other resorts. The trouble seems to be that the kids are unable to hold on to their mothers' skirts. They can't reach them.

Jake Schlitzler, for years one of the best-known characters of the lower East Side, where he sold pretzels and dill pickles for his stand on Pitt street, is back after an absence of three months.

Jake's sons, who are both millionaires, got the old man an up-to-date apartment on Riverside Drive not long ago. They hired him a valet, a butler and a chauffeur. Jake did not like the atmosphere, and the other tenants complained about the heavy cooking aromas from Jake's apartment.

So he moved back to the East Side, got his old handcar and started selling pickles.

Walking about ten blocks Sunday about 3 o'clock I counted 13 couples lingering in apartment corridors, a fraction less than two to the block.

A recent police order gives them freedom to kiss and make faces at cops should the enforcers of the law and order try to interfere. One magistrate rule that kissing in parks or halls and vestibules does not constitute "a case," while another asked a young lady who was being kissed to make a face. He was delighted with it.

Serious Shortage of City Water Predicted Unless Rain Visits Atlanta Within Next Few Days.

LITTLE HOPE FOR WEATHER CHANGE

East and Middle West Prostrated by Fourth Day of Heat Wave Sweeping Over Them.

MONTANA SHIVERS IN SNOW STORM

Great Falls, Mont., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—While the east and middle west sweated under oppressive heat, this section of Montana today was under a 4-inch blanket of snow. The snow was wet and heavy, causing damage to trees, shrubs and gardens. It was regarded as generally beneficial to crops. It is the only June snowfall recorded in Great Falls since June, 1903.

With the prolonged drouth taking on serious proportions in Georgia and throughout the eastern states, threatening severe damage to cotton and other crops, information from the United States weather bureau in Atlanta Thursday held out no hope for rain within the next few days.

High temperatures, which have been ranging from 75 to 90 degrees for nearly a week, are not scheduled to abate today according to the weather man, though the light breeze of Wednesday night and Thursday alleviated the extreme heat to some extent.

The highest temperature of Thursday in Atlanta was 88 degrees, several degrees cooler than the preceding two days. The lowest record of the day was 68 degrees.

Wednesday the mercury reached 91 and on Tuesday ascended to the dizzy figures of 92.

The extreme heat is proving a nemesis to the cotton boll weevil but unless rain comes to strengthen the cotton the hot wave will prove continued on Page 2, Column 6.

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Son of Barrow County Sheriff Killed and Ben Epps Injured as Plane Crashes Into Bridge.

Athens, Ga., June 4.—Otis Camp, Jr., son of Sheriff and Mrs. Otis Camp of Barrow county, Windell, is dead, and Ben T. Epps, local flier, is seriously hurt as a result of a crash which occurred when the airplane piloted by Epps went into a nose dive and fell to the ground as they were making a landing on the municipal field here early tonight.

Camp, a Winder high school boy, was well known in state athletic circles. He was 17 years of age.

Epps, one of the veteran fliers of the state, was piloting the plane with Camp as a passenger. As he pointed the machine downward, something went wrong with the mechanism, which threw the plane into a nose dive to the ground.

Camp's father hurried to Athens when informed of the accident, but his son died before he reached here. Mrs. Camp is in St. Petersburg, Fla. Epps is suffering with a crushed leg, a punctured ear drum and it is believed a fracture of the spine at the base of the brain. Little hope is felt for his recovery.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Epps and one of several sons, one of them being Carl Epps, graduate of Georgia Tech. He is the owner and manager of Epps garage here.

HEAT-CRAZED MAN MURDERS 8 OF FAMILY

Mother, Brother, Sister-in-Law and Five Nephews and Nieces Are Slain in Frenzy

CRYING OF INFANT STOPPED BY BULLET

Child Escapes Death by Fainting—Slayer, Who Attempted Suicide, Expected To Recover.

Hamilton, Ohio, June 4.—Of all the cities in the grip of the great heat wave, the worst curse of the atmospheric phenomenon fell upon Hamilton, where a heat-maddened man killed eight members of his family.

Floyd Russell, 42 years old, had been brooding because the major part of the Russell family was about to be taken away from him. Heat, it is said, intensified his fear of the separation and he became insane, shooting with two pistols, his mother, brother, sister-in-law and five nephews and nieces.

Mrs. Emma Russell, the sister-in-law, recently inherited some money and with this she had planned to establish a separate home for herself, her husband and their six children. The family was practically wiped out shortly after dawn in less than 15 minutes.

Child Faints, Escapes.

Little Dorothy Russell, 8 years old, alone escaped death when she fainted as her uncle fired. Russell believed her dead. He shot himself in the chest, but probably will recover.

"I was dreaming about eating a big piece of pie when all of a sudden it seemed to blow up," little Dorothy told the police. "I heard it. Then I sat up in bed and saw Uncle Floyd with a gun in each hand shooting at grandma and brother."

"I screamed and ran. So did sister Julia and Grace. I heard some more shooting upstairs and baby cried. Then there was another shot and he stopped."

Uncle Floyd came downstairs and caught Julia and Grace in the kitchen. I heard him coming and ran away, but he caught them and shot them over and over.

Maniac Laughs at Crime. "When he came out of the kitchen he was laughing and talking to himself, but when he saw me he stopped and began loading his guns."

"For a minute I couldn't move. I thought maybe I'd better let him kill me right away. Then the next thing I knew I was running and he was shooting at me. I stumbled lots and lots of times and when I got to the fence I was so weak I couldn't climb over. I saw Uncle Floyd shoot at me again and then everything went black."

"I thought I'd done for her," said Russell when advised that Dorothy had fainted and still lived. "She fainted every time I shot and that time she just curled up."

WORKERS RALLY IN CLOSING DAYS OF COIN CAMPAIGN

Less Than 70,000 Coin Certificates Remain To Be Sold To Complete City's 200,000 Quota.

CANVASS PLANNED LAST FOUR DAYS

City Divided Into 23 Sections for Whirlwind Drive by Prominent Atlanta Business Men.

Nearly two score prominent Atlantans will canvass the city during the remaining four days of the Stone Mountain memorial coin sale drive, according to plans outlined at a meeting last Thursday afternoon between City Chairman Alfred C. Newell and a group of leading business men.

The city will be divided into 23 districts, with a leading business man at the head of a corps of volunteer workers in each section, and beginning today an intensive drive will be made to complete Atlanta's quota of 200,000 coins.

The campaign workers will endeavor to complete the raising of Atlanta's quota in four days, which means that approximately $20,000 will have to be raised daily.

Districts Assigned. Following the outlining of the intensive drive Mr. Newell assigned the 23 districts to prominent workers who attended the called meeting Thursday with the request that they make a thorough canvass of their respective districts and report as soon as possible. They will be allowed to visit any of their friends for aid in making the canvass but will be held responsible for the territory assigned them.

At a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber building Thursday Mr. Newell made a brief address concerning the drive and a response was delivered by President John M. Slaton pledging the support of the Jaycees.

Sale of certificates to buyers will be abandoned and each worker present at the meeting was given a number of coin order blanks to be signed by the buyer. The new blanks are orders for the buyer's respective bank to charge to his account the amount of the coin purchase and hold coins until the buyer may attach a check to the order payable when the coins are delivered.

Millon Bell, of the federal reserve bank, has consented to act as chairman.

Tied for Championship

ATLANTAN RALLIES IN LAST 36 HOLES TO SCORE VICTORY

MacFarlane Achieves Tie by Spectacular Game Upon Last Hole of National Tournament.

MATCH TO SETTLE TIE SET FOR TODAY

Farrell and Ouimet Tied for Second Place With 292—Sarazen and Hagen Third With 293.

Worcester Country Club, June 4.—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, a sore and unhappy young man, sat throughout the sultry afternoon on the porch of the clubhouse at Worcester, waiting to be beaten. Lady Luck was hovering about him, but he didn't know it. And when the last long shadows of evening fell across the wide-sweeping fairways, where the open championships of 1925 was being fought, Bobby had not been beaten.

"Whoever defeats Jones will win the open," said the experts as the country's leading golfers set out in quest of the open title Wednesday. They were right, for Willie MacFarlane, of Oak Ridge, was the only entrant to equal Bobby's score of 291, and the two will play off the tie tomorrow at 11 a. m. To win the title, Willie must beat Bobby Jones.

Bobby Early to Finish. Jones was one of the earliest to finish, and his 291 didn't look so good. There were half a dozen leaders with excellent chances to beat the Atlanta amateur's mark, especially MacFarlane, the genial, sparkling Metropolitan golfer, who needed but a 77 to win his first championship. But the test of sweating heat and the grind of an open championship, plus the omnipresent presence of a lady they know as Luck, proved too much for MacFarlane and the others.

In a way, it was a tragedy of errors. With 10 golfers within striking distance of the title, which should have been won with a 288 at the most, trouble came snafu and in pairs for each and every one.

Bobby himself had encountered plenty before he finally slung his putter into the bag on the 15th green and stalked off believing himself out of it.

Johnny Farrell Blows Up. Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge, N. Y., who finished in a tie for second with Ouimet, of Woodland, with marks of 292, could have won the championship had he done it. He hadn't blown up on the final round and taken 40 going out. A 38 coming home was not so good, either, and the young New Yorker had to divide second place.

Ouimet, the graceful amateur from Brookline, who 13 years ago tied a knot in the British lion's tail by beating the best of the foreign invaders in the open at his home course, could have won Thursday, but he took 39 going out, and slumped on the way back at the crucial moment, taking a 38.

Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen came together from quite a distance in the rear to tie for third place.

SOUTHERN STATES PANIC THREATENS ROAD CONFERENCE OVER FALSE FIRE TO OPEN JUNE 8

Conference in Atlanta Will Designate U. S. Highways—Nine States To Be Represented.

Washington, June 4.—(Special.)—Highway officials of the southern states will meet in Atlanta on June 8 to designate the important interstate roads in those states which will be uniformly marked as United States highways. The meeting is the outcome of the initial conference of the joint board on interstate highways, composed of state and federal highway officials, which was held in Washington April 20 and 21. Regional meetings have been held in San Francisco, Kansas City and Chicago and the Atlanta meeting will be followed by meetings in New York and Boston for the purpose of selecting the important interstate roads, which, after coordination as between the various sections, will be known as United States highways.

Proposal Made Last Year. The selected routes will be designated by number and marked uniformly in all states with a standard marker. As a basis for the selection of the routes, each state highway department will present at the meeting a map showing the routes within the state which, in the opinion of the department, should be selected.

Officials of the state highway departments of Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida will be present at the meeting. The proposal to designate important interstate roads and mark them uniformly was initiated by the American Association of State Highway Officials at the annual meeting of the association in San Francisco in November 1924, when the secretary of agriculture was asked to name a joint board to consider the matter. There has been a feeling among

Faculty of Emory Suspends ROWSEY WAS TO GET DIPLOMA THIS YEAR Editor of Banned Magazine

Frank Rowsey, editor-in-chief of the Emory Phoenix and holder of an imposing array of titles in collegiate activities, Thursday night was suspended as a student of Emory university following suppression of the May issue of the Phoenix for indecency.

Announcement of the suspension was made by Acting Dean J. Gordon Ripe, of the school of liberal arts. Rowsey, who was slated to receive his A. B. degree in June, will not be awarded his diploma at that time, it was indicated.

GERALD CHAPMAN GRANTED REPRIEVE

Hartford, Conn., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—A reprieve for Gerald Chapman from June 25 to December 3 was issued today by Governor John H. Trumbull on the application of State Attorney Hugh M. A. A. Chapman was convicted at the March term of the superior court of the murder of Policeman Kelly in New Britain, and after a sensational trial was sentenced by Judge Jennings to be hanged at the state prison on June 25.

His counsel took an appeal to the supreme court and as it could not be ready for hearing at the May term the case went over to the October term of supreme court. A copy of the reprieve was served on the clerk of the superior court and the warden of the prison today.

One of the reasons given by the governor for his action is that Chapman's appeal from conviction cannot be acted upon prior to June 25, the date set for his execution.

The action of State's Attorney Alcorn has been anticipated from the time that the condemned man's junior counsel, Nathan O. Freedman, had entered an appeal to the supreme court. The appeal was specifically based on certain exhibits in the murder trial, such as ammunition, guns, books on counterfeiting and two bottles of nitroglycerine which had spread before the jury by the state's attorney during his argument before the jury.

Prejudice and Partiality.
The text of the argument also is objected to and certain portions of it pointed out as an appeal to passion, prejudice and partiality.

When the appeal was filed, Frederick J. Groppe, chief counsel, said that this was the beginning of a fight for the life of Chapman.

The length of the reprieve is until December 8. Should the appeal be decided against the condemned man at the October term there still would be opportunity for an appeal to the state board of pardons which will meet on the first of November under a change in the law made by the legislature, which had adjourned.

One More Juror Has Been Chosen For Germ Trial

Chicago, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The prosecution was forced to exhaust two more peremptory challenges today to select the second panel of four jurors, apparently too pleasing to the defense, from being sworn in the Shepherd trial. The state has only nine peremptory challenges left, while the defense has used but three of its score.

It was the second time William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel, had accepted a panel as tendered without offering to question the veniremen and the second time the prosecution hastily had accepted and broken a panel by a peremptory challenge.

The net gain of the day was one venireman apparently acceptable to both sides. In the jury box at adjournment were four sworn jurors, three tentatively accepted by both prosecution and defense, one questioned briefly by the state and four who had not been examined.

Nearly 400 veniremen had been excused at adjournment today, and the list was divided into the seventh venire, two regular and four special veniremen having been exhausted.

An informal controversy was waged between Assistant State's Attorney G. E. Gorman and W. S. Stewart, chief of defense counsel, before court opened, over the competency of testimony for the prosecution by Chief Justice Olson, of the municipal court. Judge Olson instigated the investigation of McClintock's death.

The defense, Mr. Stewart indicated, will attempt to keep Judge Olson off the witness stand.

Gorman insisted that testimony by Olson concerning the McClintock fortune would be competent.

GAINESVILLE CITIZENS BUY SUPPLY OF COINS

Gainesville, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—H. C. Hosh, chairman of the Confederate memorial coin distribution campaign, reports the sale of 500 coins each to two local citizens, who expressed fear that after the campaign is closed not enough coins would be left to go around. Another local citizen purchased 300 coins, it was reported by Mr. Hosh.

The local quota of 7,500 coins is expected to be oversubscribed by the end of the week.

Twenty-five workers are out on the campaign throughout Hall county.

BRITISH CONCERNED OVER SITUATION

London, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—A very grave view is taken here of the disturbances at Shanghai and the outlook in China generally, fear being expressed that things are moving toward a situation resembling the Boxer uprising.

As regards the agitation among the workers and students, the editorial writers of the London papers are almost unanimous in attributing it to Bolshevik influences, especially the activity of the soviet ambassador, Mr. Karakhan, whom they charge with having for a long time fomented an anti-European movement by inflammatory pamphlets and the distribution of money.

An informal controversy was waged between Assistant State's Attorney G. E. Gorman and W. S. Stewart, chief of defense counsel, before court opened, over the competency of testimony for the prosecution by Chief Justice Olson, of the municipal court. Judge Olson instigated the investigation of McClintock's death.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

Peking, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—M. Karakhan, Russian soviet ambassador to China, today denied that his country was responsible for hostilities of Chinese students at Shanghai.

The soviet ambassador said, in his opinion, America might well take this opportunity to prove professed friendship for China by standing aside, since he is not only averse to the Chinese students but to the Chinese government.

"This is your business, not ours," he said. "Why should America assume any responsibility for the Chinese situation?" he continued.

Every effort will be made to settle America with a share of the blame, the ambassador said, and the American government should be replying to the Chinese protest will be a tacit acknowledgment of responsibility.

"This is America's opportunity to take a stand which will promote friendly feeling on the part of the Chinese," M. Karakhan added.

The ambassador's analysis of the situation was that industrial conditions alone would be responsible for the rebellion of Shanghai workers.

Exploitation of an intolerable extent, including that of women and children, was enough to precipitate the climax at Shanghai without prompting from any outside source, the ambassador said.

Allegations that the soviet consul general at Shanghai actively promoted the strike of factory workers were said by Karakhan to be "absolutely unfounded," as was a story saying that soviet funds were distributed to finance the student anti-foreign demonstration.

Cooperation Needed To Insure Success of National Security

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, June 4.—Cooperation of state and local political authorities as well as national guard units is vital to the success of national security plans, Acting Secretary Dwight D. Davis informed the governors of all states today in letters supplementing a recent telegraphic request for their support in connection with the defense test muster on July 4.

"Of course, state response to the proposed test is purely voluntary and must necessarily be predicated on what you consider to be the best interest of your state," Mr. Davis said.

In a general outline of the purposes and scope of the defense test, the acting secretary said that its object was two fold:

"To acquaint the American people with the national defense policies and obligations as set forth in the constitution and the national defense act of 1920 and to depict the plans and processes for the organization of the national defense force."

To emphasize the historical occasion of the test, the secretary said, the manpower and resources of the country for national defense and to commemorate the sacrifice made for the defense.

To carry out these purposes, the letter continued, the defense test is designed to make it certain that the people, states, local communities, and the national guard are acquainted with and realize their obligations under the national defense policies since successful application of the test will be a guarantee of the security and a guarantee for peace."

The secretary informed the governors that the test was a general understanding of the defense test to explain to the people this system, and their part therein."

Mr. Davis said, "It is believed that the test will be a guarantee of the security and a guarantee for peace."

PROLONGED DROUGHT THREATENS GEORGIA

destructive to the crop as well as pests, according to J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture.

The weather now prevailing in Atlanta and vicinity is typical of almost the entire south, marked by high temperature and a dearth of rain.

A serious shortage in the city water is seen by W. Zode Smith, head of the city water department, unless the drought is broken within the next few days. Mr. Smith has appealed to Atlantans to practice economy in the use of water until the present shortage threat is relieved by rain.

67 DEATHS ATTRIBUTED TO PRESENT HEAT WAVE.

Chicago, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—At least 67 deaths have been attributed, directly or indirectly, to the heat wave of the last few days over the middle west and east. Of these, 40 were listed as the toll of heat as follows:

Two in New York; seven in New Jersey; two in Maryland; six in the New England states; twelve in Ohio; six in Michigan; one in Indiana; four in Chicago.

In addition, 27 other deaths were traced to storms and bathing fatalities as follows:

Eleven storm deaths in Iowa. Five storm deaths in Minnesota. Four storm deaths in Nebraska. One storm death in Montana.

Five bathing fatalities in Milwaukee. One bathing death in Chicago.

BUFFALO ENJOYS COOL WEATHER.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Buffalo received with surprise today the reports of continued intense heat throughout the eastern states. The official temperature here at noon was 67 degrees. Cool westerly breezes blew in from Lake Erie.

TWO MORE DEATHS IN NEW YORK CITY.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two deaths in New York City today brought the total reported number of heat deaths in northern New Jersey to seven.

BALTIMORE SCHOOLS CLOSED BY HEAT.

Baltimore, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—All the local public schools were closed at noon today for the remainder of the day because of the excessive heat which has continued unbroken for five days, coupled with a depressing humidity.

The maximum temperature up to midday was 94 degrees.

Two prostrations were reported today. The condition of both victims was said to be serious.

NEW YORK CITY SIZZLES UNDER FOURTH DAY OF HEAT.

New York, June 4.—Sizzling under a relentless sun through the fourth consecutive day of its heat wave, New York today hung up a new record high temperature for June 4—95 degrees—and recorded three deaths and 21 prostrations.

Because of the suffering, city officials took measures to bring relief to harassed citizens. Mayor Hylan ordered the parks of the city thrown open to the public as sleeping places tonight. On the east side and in other crowded tenement districts, firemen and policemen turned on 600 street sprinklers to the acclaim of sweltering children.

Many schools were dismissed early.

NEW ENGLAND SWELTERS THROUGH ANOTHER HOT DAY.

Boston, June 4.—New England sweltered through another day of intense heat Thursday, with the mercury soaring to 90 degrees here for the hottest June 4 in the history of the local weather bureau.

Two deaths and five prostrations from the heat in greater Boston were reported to the police during the day. Public schools were closed in many communities in the metropolitan district and manufacturing plants in several New England cities were shut down for all or part of the day.

Thursday night the mercury had slipped slightly here, but the weather bureau predicted "continued warm" for Friday.

MIDDLE WEST SWELTERS IN SIZZLING HEAT WAVE.

Chicago, June 4.—The east, south and middle west continued tonight to swelter in the grip of an early summer heat wave, while the mercury went hiking to a new altitude record for the day in several cities.

Shenandoah Ready To Hunt For Amundsen's Polar Party, Secretary Wilbur Is Advised Commander Outlines Plans for Airship's Assistance If Needed; Ships To Begin Cruise.

Washington, June 4.—Preparations have been completed for sending the dirigible Shenandoah in search of Amundsen among the ice floes and frozen deserts of the arctic should the navy decide upon that venture.

Commander Zachary Lansdowne of the Shenandoah recently prepared plans to govern the dirigible's part in the MacMillan-Navy expedition set for next month if she should be called out. Thursday the skipper of the Shenandoah sent to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur a supplementary plan which showed how he could operate in quest of the Norwegian explorer.

Would Make Two Jumps.
Next week the Shenandoah will be refitted with helium at Lakehurst, N. J. If a search for Amundsen is ordered, the mooring ship Patoka will proceed ahead to Spitzbergen, a journey of 17 days, where Amundsen established his base. The Shenandoah would follow, making the voyage in two jumps, landing at Pullar, England, after a 3,050-mile nonstop transatlantic flight, and then making the remaining leg of 1,539 miles to Spitzbergen.

Whether the navy will send the Shenandoah on this expedition depends upon the wish of the Norwegian government and whether the venture could be undertaken without conflicting with the MacMillan expedition.

It has not been announced that the Shenandoah would accompany MacMillan, but it is probable that she will be held in readiness either at Lakehurst or be moved up on the Maine coast at Wiscasset to stand by.

Believes Search Practicable.
Commander Lansdowne believes the Amundsen searching expedition is practicable. Members of the crew are ready to volunteer. But it was denied Lansdowne has recommended the search be undertaken.

Meanwhile, the state department has denied receiving a note from the Canadian government regarding title to the polar continent which MacMillan seeks to find. Recently, the Canadian minister of interior in a speech indicated Canada regarded all land up to the pole as being under her jurisdiction. But no attempt has been made to establish this claim by correspondence with the United States. It is assumed here that should MacMillan discover a new polar continent under the arctic ice, the United States would claim the land by right of discovery.

NORWAY MONOPLANES MAY LEAVE SATURDAY.

Oslo, Norway, June 4.—The deadline of watchful waiting for the aerial return of Roald Amundsen and his polar aviators has been reached. Two weeks will have passed Friday since the intrepid explorers turned their planes into the unknown north, and in that time no word has reached civilization as to their whereabouts.

The relief vessels Farna and Hobby will leave Friday for the polar ice packs to conduct a search. Two monoplanes have been making trial flights with the intention of proceeding to Spitzbergen Saturday.

SHRINERS TO PUBLISH NATIONAL MAGAZINE

Los Angeles, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Installation of newly elected officers and decision to establish a national magazine to be sent to all members of the order and to raise the annual dues of $5 to $10 were the chief items of business transacted today at the concluding 1925 convention session of the Imperial Council Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The council also passed a ruling that a life membership fee should not be less than ten times the annual dues and decided to contribute $150,000 to the George Washington memorial at the rate of $30,000 a year for five years.

Tonight Shrine interest and public enthusiasm, as well as most of the automobiles in Southern California, centered on the line of march of two big parades. The first was a pageant of all the Shrines, representing half a hundred temples; the second was an electrical parade and motion picture pageant.

LEATHERS LOSES IN KNIFE BATTLE AND IS ARRESTED

Cliff Leathers, 33, of 301-A Rawson street, was arrested Thursday night on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct, following a knife battle with an unidentified white man at the corner of Houston and Courtland streets. Leathers was cut about the face and hands.

When Call Officers Goode and Cranshaw arrived upon the scene Leathers' opponent fled, and at an early hour this morning had not been arrested.

MARSHALL'S BODY IS LAD TO REST

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The body of Thomas Riley Marshall, whose gentle appeals for more kindness and tolerance endeared him to the nation, lies in the same cemetery wherein rests the body of James Whitcomb Riley, another Hoosier, who touched American hearts through his poems of homely strains. They lie not far apart on the rolling slopes of Crown Hill.

Indiana, with simple but reverent ceremonies, today laid Mr. Marshall to rest. The obsequies were fitting for a man whose gentle, unassuming life, despite his elevation to the presidency of a great nation and to the governorship of his native state, had been a life of quietude.

Pastor Delivers Eulogy.
A brief eulogy by his pastor, Scottish Rite service by his brethren in that order, a plain procession to the cemetery, Masonic rites committing the body to its resting place—these were all that were accorded one whose station in life might fittingly have merited a more pompous service.

Rev. Matthew Smith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, where Mr. Marshall held membership while in this city, delivered the eulogy after reading from the Bible the fourth chapter of St. Mark, upon which Mr. Marshall's eyes rested before they closed forever in Washington last Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Smith paid tribute to him as a Christian.

Wife Given Lodge Ring.
"He had a firm and steadfast faith in the eternal God," said the pastor. He was an open and avowed disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ. He did not parade his faith, neither did he conceal it.

The eulogy ended, William Goode, of Fort Wayne, Ind., deputy of the supreme council for Indiana, of the Scottish Rite, intoned the ritual of the funeral service and presented to the widow Mr. Marshall's Masonic ring. A Scottish Rite choir sang and then recited the Lord's prayer.

Ancient Landmarks lodge, A. F. and M., took charge of the body to conduct it to the cemetery. Mr. Marshall followed the casket, accompanied by Bernard Shively, of Marion, Ind., Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, of Washington, D. C., and James M. Baker, of Washington, who was secretary of the senate during Mr. Marshall's vice presidency.

T. W. BRADLEY MISSING; POLICE AID IS ASKED

Police have been asked to aid in a search for T. W. Bradley, 31, of 189 Atlanta avenue, an employee of a local bank, who has been missing since early Wednesday morning.

The request was made by Mrs. Bradley to Acting Chief E. L. Jett, who issued orders which were read by the policemen on the morning watch. Mrs. Bradley stated that her husband had about $150 on his person when he left the home for the bank Wednesday morning. He did not appear for work on that date according to officials of the institution, and foul play is feared.

That Going Back to Broadway But Only Upon Business Trip

Winchester, Va., June 4.—Harry Thaw, going back to Broadway tonight. But it's just a business trip, he insists.

Thaw talked freely of his first trip. "Those stories of how I threw hundreds of dollars away in Broadway cabarets are malicious lies," he said, excitedly pacing the floor of his mansion. "Fabulous tips—," he laughed, "why the highest tip I gave anybody wasn't over $10."

Thaw denied he had shown more than passing interest in Fawn Gray, Broadway cabaret dancer. He also denied having given "her or anybody else any jewelry or dogs."

"Of course, I took in several cabarets," Thaw admitted, but that was "for the highest tip I gave anybody anything else."

Thaw was greatly amused over one of the New York stories, in which a Broadway cabaret dancer was so intoxicated he had to be helped to his taxi by several drivers.

WOMAN INDICTED IN POISON PLOT

Crown Point, Ind., June 4.—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, 49, Gary, Ind., widow, was indicted on three first-degree murder charges yesterday by the Lake county grand jury.

The state charges that she slew three of her children by poison.

A third son, Henry, 21, died in 1921, and a fourth, David, Jr., was poisoned, but his condition was discovered in a Chicago hospital and physicians saved his life. He has been slowly improving.

It was the poisoning of David, Jr., that led to Mrs. Cunningham's arrest and the disclosure of the mysterious deaths. Bodies of three children were exhumed. Chemical analysis disclosed the presence of poison.

The children whose bodies were exhumed, and for whose deaths Mrs. Cunningham was indicted, were:

Isabelle, aged 18, who died December 31, 1920; insured for $350.

Charles, 19, died September 21, 1922; insured for $1,000.

Henry, 21, died September 26, 1923; insured for $300.

Henry Cunningham, 21, died on October 13, 1921. He also was insured for $1,000. Like his father, who died July 2, 1918, but the authorities found no evidence that either of them was a poison victim. Besides David, Jr., one daughter, Mae, 19, survives.

Attorneys for Mrs. Cunningham are expected to plead insanity in her defense. She is expected to be arraigned within two weeks.

SIMS ADDS VETO TO FINANCE SHEET

practically the same condition. We taxed them to the limit in drafting the January sheet, and nothing has developed since then to convince me that the receipts will be increased in accordance with the figures contained in the June sheet.

That in itself would be sufficient grounds on which to veto the measure, but in addition, the sheet contemplates adding several city employees to the rolls, and also provides for some street widening and other improvements, which, in view of the city's strained financial condition, I do not think should be undertaken at the present time.

Curtailment Needed.
"Right now is the time when we should curtail expenditures instead of increasing them. The national government is taking every possible step to cut operating expenses, and I think that the least the city should do is to live within its income."

"Instead of adding men to the city pay rolls, we should cut off all superfluous employees. Several departments have more men than they need, and I intend to call council's attention to that fact in my message. I will not approve addition of any extra help for any department until the present financial condition is relieved."

"As long as I am mayor of Atlanta, the city will not be plunged into a financial hole with any approval, and action to place it there will be passed only over my veto."

Holds Conference.
The mayor's action was taken only after lengthy conferences Wednesday and Thursday with Dr. W. B. Duvall, chairman of the finance committee, City Comptroller B. Graham West, the three city tax assessors and other officials.

Veto of the sheet will not affect payment of salaries, or issuance of other checks for purposes provided in the January finance sheet. However, it will hold up all new appropriations called for in the June sheet until after action of council.

If the mayor's veto is sustained, it will be necessary for the finance committee to draw a new sheet, which then must be sent to council again. Even though there was not a vote against passage of the sheet by either council or the aldermanic board, it is predicted that the full administration strength will rally to sustain the veto.

Duvall Undecided.
Dr. Duvall stated Thursday night that while he has reached no definite decision, it is probable that he, as chairman of the finance committee, will lead the fight to pass the sheet, notwithstanding the mayor's veto.

"The sheet has been approved by the entire finance committee and voted by council," he said, "and I have seen no reason why we should change our opinions."

While appropriations of practically every department were increased, the following are the largest new items called for in the June sheet: A new ventilating system for the city auditorium; $4,000 for the purchase of property adjoining the auditorium; $10,000 for new trucks in the sanitary department; $4,500 for new cars in the police department; $8,000 for installation of new record system in the tax assessor's office; $3,200 for an X-ray machine at Grady hospital; $10,500 for operating expenses of the new psychopathic ward at Grady hospital, which opens next month; $5,000 for general street repairs; $6,000 for widening of Peters street; $7,500 for the stockade building for men; $2,100 for the women's stockade; $1,000 for Spring street sidewalks; $4,000 for the McDonough Road bridge; $15,000 for repairs and replacements of buildings at Lakewood park; $1,000 to start work of widening Edgewood avenue; and $1,500 for staging of a Christmas pageant.

FARMING SLUMPED BADLY IN LOWNES

Washington, June 4.—(Special.)—A decided slump in agriculture has occurred in the last five years in Lowndes county, in south Georgia, of which Valdosta is the county seat, it is shown in preliminary figures just made public by the department of commerce in its farm census.

The number of farms had dropped from 2,065 on January 1, 1920, to 1,776 on January 1, 1925, with a decrease of 289 farms, or 14 per cent.

Farm values were nearly $2,500,000 less in 1925 than in 1920, being $5,552,895 on January 1, 1925, as compared with $8,053,893 in 1920.

The department of commerce assigns no reason for the slump in agriculture in Lowndes county. From time to time, it will make public similar census reports for other counties, when it will be possible to determine whether this condition is general in the state.

ROAD CONFERENCE TO OPEN JUNE 8

highways officials for some time that a remedy should be found for the present confused situation in respect to interstate highways.

Information was presented at the recent meeting of the joint board in Washington showing that overlapping of named routes is common. There are few of such routes that are not confused in part with other routes. One well-known route 1,500 miles long overlaps other routes for 70 per cent of its length.

Four different routes are involved in this overlapping, and in places two or three of them coincide for many miles.

At the regional meetings tentative proposals with respect to the form and color of warning and directional signs for the interstate routes will be presented to the state highway officials for consideration. It has been tentatively decided to adopt a standard round sign for marking all railroad crossings and an octagonal sign to indicate danger or stop, a diamond-shaped sign for caution for slow square sign to indicate "look" attention and rectangular shape for directional or informational signs.

Other Bodies Want Action.
Recommendations with regard to the standardization of highway signs have been made recently by a number of national organizations, including the American Association of State Highway Officials, the Hoover Street and Highway Safety conference, the sectional committee on color code for highway signs of the American engineering standards committee, the National Safety council, the United States bureau of standards, the National Research council and the American Automobile association.

A result of the work of the joint board on interstate highways in cooperation with the state highway department, it is anticipated that a practical scheme, taking into account all such recommendations, will be evolved in the near future, and applied at least to the designated important interstate highways.

State Bar Meet Gets Under Way At Tybee Island

Savannah, Ga., June 4.—The 42nd annual convention of the Georgia Bar association was called to order before President H. H. Swift, of Columbus, on Hotel Tybee pavilion at noon today. Due to the late arrival of the morning train the convention did not get off to as early a start as planned but by 12 o'clock there were several hundred lawyers present, and the opening session was one of the best attended in recent years.

The following program was delivered: Address of President Swift; paper by J. N. Talley, of Macon, on the "Dodge Lands and Litigation" and report of committee on jurisprudence, law reform and procedure, Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, chairman.

Low Ideals Menace.
"The lawyers of today must awake to the menace of an ignorant bar of low ideals, else the profession will lose its ancient and high estate, and be judged by the base and mediocre of its membership, rather than by the pure and worthy."

This might be termed the keynote of the address of President Swift. His subject was "Adaptation of Law to Changing Social and Economic Conditions."

In connection with this thought, Mr. Swift stressed the fact that the Georgia Bar association has committed itself to urging reform in the method of selecting the judiciary of the state, and said the administration of justice would be promoted by the selection of judges from a better qualified bar.

"We ought to keep out of the profession men and women ignorant of its honorable traditions of service, indifferent to its ideals, unappreciative of the value of lofty ethical standards, intellectually unprepared, and poorly equipped to grapple with the complexities of the modern law," he said.

The remedy for the tendency of the federal government and also the state governments to pass laws social in their nature, such as the workmen's compensation act, the "blue sky" security law, the zoning laws, the laws establishing the interstate and state commissions for regulating the railroads, Mr. Swift said, was the "scientific interpretation and readaptation of law to living needs through the judicial process, as the surest corrective of dangers which may lurk in the extreme social trend."

Georgia Was Pioneer.
That Georgia was pioneer in the establishment of a railroad commission and that the innovation was "in the interest of a multitude of shippers to afford protection against discrimination and to fix and prescribe the rates and of the common carrier" was an interesting statement in the address.

"Almost every state in the Union, and the nation itself, has followed with the establishment of similar public utility boards or commissions. The universal acceptance of these regulatory boards indicates how such legislation for the public welfare may be deemed an innovation of radical reforms in one period, and yet be the essence of conservatism in a succeeding time." President Swift concluded.

Fifty-five new members of the association were elected today. Unanimous approval was given by the bar association to the sale of Confederate memorial coins for the Stone Mountain memorial, and a resolution was adopted endorsing their sale and urging the people of the state to support it.

The resolution was offered by George M. Napier, of Decatur, who asked and obtained unanimous consent to immediate action upon it instead of having it take its usual course and go through the resolutions committee.

261 Tech High School Boys Receive Diplomas Thursday

Two hundred and sixty-one graduates of Tech high school Thursday night received their diplomas at exercises held in the city auditorium. An audience of 4,000 relatives and friends applauded each boy as his diploma was handed to him, while prominent citizens joined with leading lights of the class in lauding their scholastic achievements and predicting lives of useful citizenship for their future years.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta school system, pronounced the invocation and presided at the exercises which were arranged by the Tech high band, Tech high orchestra and school quartet.

Lewis Valedictorian.
George H. Lewis, Jr., was class valedictorian, while Richard S. McConnell outlined the class history and Lucius J. Harris, Jr., made the class prophecy. Lane Mitchell, Jr., delivered the class oration, taking as his subject "Atlanta's Educational Future."

The valedictorian, George Lewis, spoke of "Georgia and Tech High," telling of the marvellous possibilities inherent in the natural resources of the state and of the important part technically trained Georgians will play in the development of the state industrially, commercially and financially.

D. M. Therrell, second vice president of the board of education, presented the diplomas, while W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech high school, made the awards of special medals and scholarships.

Ben Perloff was awarded the scholarship medal, having scored 90 points in all studies. The cup for the best all-around student of the class was awarded to Robert M. Gold.

Stinnes' Industrial Empire

FAMILY ROWS ENDANGER ESTATE OF LATE MAGNATE

Commences To Disintegrate

BY ERIC KEYSER.

Berlin, June 4.—The great industrial empire founded by the genius of the late Hugo Stinnes has begun to disintegrate.

The era of world expansion under the Stinnes dynasty ended Thursday when members of the Stinnes family, conferring with directors of leading German banks, including the Reichsbank, decided that the scope of the family realm must be drastically reduced.

The decision is construed as a confession that with the death of Hugo Stinnes, the master genius passed, leaving the two boys, Edmund and Hugo, Jr., incapable of managing the world-wide activities which the father had built up. These included 20 coal mines, eight iron mines, 24 iron and steel plants, automobile factories, electrical industries, steamships, newspapers and other immense undertakings.

It has been known for some time that the Stinnes enterprises were falling short of expectations. Anxiety had overcome financial circles, since the two Stinnes brothers split on a question of political faith. The situation reached a head Thursday, when representatives of the leading German banks met at the invitation of the Reichsbank to consider the state of affairs in the Stinnes concerns. The bankers decided that drastic reorganization was necessary to restore the different firms to prosperity.

As the first step toward this reorganization, it was decided to concentrate the Stinnes empire in the hands of young Hugo, who is only 20 years old, and ease the number of economic enterprises which have proved unwieldy since the father died. This decision sounds the death-knell of the famous vertical trust, a German conception of business which centered in one control all industries pertaining to one another. In its place will be substituted the American horizontal trust, which seeks to control only one line of economic endeavor.

Henceforth, therefore, the Stinnes interests will resume their original basis, concentrating in iron and coal, and a few carefully selected commercial ventures. The old dream of Hugo Stinnes, the elder, which he lived to realize and which extended its ramifications into every corner of the world and into every branch of commerce and industry, will follow its creator to his grave.

The fact that representatives of several credit banks were present increased the uneasiness on the bourse. A statement presented at the meeting, however, repudiated reports that the Stinnes interests were threatened with insolvency, although the bank directors conceded that complete reorganization was imperative.

This decision follows the resignation of Edmund Stinnes from the firm a week ago. The division of "the golden empire" between Edmund and Hugo, Jr., led to endless dissension within the family, and it became one of time until an overhaul of the business was inevitable.

BOBBY JONES TIED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

with marks of 293 apiece. Old Mike Brady, who had 146 Wednesday, shot 74 and 74 Thursday and moved in next to the third place mark with 294.

Heat Cuts Down Scores.

But these last named had but a scant chance to reach Bobby Jones. Sensational golf was demanded of all who would strive for the title, and sensational golf was something no one could produce. Under the heat and strain, not a golfer equalled par, to say nothing of "burning up the course."

Jones said he attributed what he considered his poor showing to weakness with his irons.

"I wasn't getting a hold of them," Bobby said. "The shots were falling away to the right, and I couldn't seem to hold them where I hit them. I was hole high, all right, but my first round of 77, Wednesday, showed a record of at least six strokes left through faulty iron play."

"I was getting my shots well up, and the cross wind Thursday was punishing my lack of precision," he continued.

Admits Playing "Rotten Golf."

Bobby expressed the opinion that he had played "rotten" golf, but "rotten" golf under the trying conditions at Worcester proved good enough to tie for first place with a brown jaw, his courage, displayed on Wednesday afternoon, and again in the face of trouble Thursday was responsible for his success.

Willie MacFarlane showed he had some of the same sort of stuff, too, when he went out in the morning in 39, and was counted out of the championship. Willie set his brown jaw and came sailing home in 33, the best last nine of the day, for a 72 which Will Southland Fail?

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Can a south which, like the fabled phoenix, has risen from blackened ashes to a position of prosperity and leadership in the nation confess its inability to do the first thing expected of it in the sale of the Stone Mountain Memorial half dollar?

Can Atlanta, the hub of reconstruction efforts, the gateway of the new south, an industrial and enriched south—hold its head and look its northern brethren in the eye if it fails to repay with appreciation the act of love and respect which made coinage of these wonderful souvenirs possible?

Those are questions the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association and everyone of its co-workers is asking as they work feverishly to send over the top Atlanta's pledge to dispose of the first 200,000 coins which will finance the work of art now under construction.

Here is one of the noblest ventures in the history of the human race. There, on the face of a mighty mountain of granite, a grateful and reverent people has undertaken to perpetuate in enduring stone the valor of its heroes. There, generations to come may journey and gaze in awe and respect on the calm and masterful faces of Lee, Jackson, Davis and others who so nobly sacrificed themselves that a principle might be carved into the heart of a nation. No memorial in the history of the world, no work of art, no fabrication of any kind now stands that will outlast it or command greater appreciation and admiration.

Surely, it cannot be possible that this city which, with other sections, fell in blackened ruins once only to rise and slowly retrace its way to greatness and thus gain the complete admiration of a former foe, can afford to let the world believe that it will not reach out and grasp the hand extended.

man of the last intensive drive, under A. C. Newell, city chairman.

All details of the new program were worked out last night. The workers will go out this morning.

Workers continued the coin sale Thursday, reporting late in the day that the day's total probably would exceed 130,000, less than 70,000 remaining to be sold to complete the city's quota of 200,000.

Efforts of workers now are centering around closing the campaign on Wednesday of next week, the last possible date that certificates may be purchased here, according to Mr. Newell, chairman of the Atlanta drive.

In an address Thursday morning before the Atlanta Parent-Teacher council, Mrs. Clifford Walker urged members to "lay aside" all other work and center activities in a final move to subscribe Atlanta's quota of memorial coin certificates.

"The south should show due appreciation of the compliment of the national government to our heroes," Mrs. Walker said, in the course of a tribute to Lee, Jackson and other leaders of the Confederacy.

Subscriptions of considerable amounts were received Thursday from a number of Atlanta firms, and other business agencies, increasing sales in smaller amounts to individuals and small groups.

Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, chairman of the women's division, stated that efforts now are being made to present coins to each graduate of Washington and Lee university and V. M. I., both located in Lexington, Ky., where General Lee and General Jackson are buried.

Mrs. Moore reported the sale Thursday of 400 coin certificates.

The Retail Credit company has purchased 2,000 coins to be distributed to offices over the country, according to announcement Thursday, and other similar organizations are being urged to do likewise, according to drive leaders.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS RECEIVE COINS

Washington, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary Winston of the treasury and Director Grant of the bureau of the mint today received from the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association the second, third and fourth coins, respectively, struck off to be sold for use of the memorial association.

Present Coolidge previously had received the first coin to be produced by the United States mint at Philadelphia under the law.

The presentation was made by Holman N. Randolph, president of the association. Mr. Randolph also conferred with treasury officials relative to the release of the coins for sale, scheduled to be July 3.

Director Grant announced at the same time that the mint bureau has approximately 2,500,000 of the Stone Mountain memorial half-dollars ready for delivery to the association. The law grants permission for the production for the special type of coin provided for a maximum of 5,000,000 of them.

FACULTY OF EMORY SUSPENDS EDITOR

literary work was enjoying a particularly large following among freshmen and even curious upper classmen.

The suspension order issued Thursday brought to an abrupt halt a collegiate career of widely-versed accomplishments. However, in addition to his high command of the editorial policies of the Phoenix, was head of a prominent Greek letter fraternity chapter on the campus, a brilliant social leader of the university, a member of Phi Delta Epsilon Journalistic fraternity, and he had contributed choice bits of scholastic wit to College Humor and Co-ed, magazines with national circulation.

Before news of Rowsey's suspension was spread, the university student body is reported to have taken deep interest in the suppression of the venerable Emory publication, sentiment appearing to be about evenly divided on the action of the student activities council, which promulgated the official ban on the magazine. Even final publication of this university policy of business, he had contributed to widespread argument over the merits and demerits of Rowsey's case.

President Harvey W. Cox announced Thursday that, in the regular policy of business, he had contributed to widespread argument over the merits and demerits of Rowsey's case.

Action Explained.

The publications committee of the student activities council, which issued the order that the Phoenix be suppressed, gave out the following statement Thursday: "The student activities council, feeling that it is detrimental to the good name and reputation of Emory university to allow such articles as 'Strangers on Parnassus,' by Frank Rowsey, to appear in an official publication of this university, saw fit, Wednesday, June 3, to suppress this issue of the Emory Phoenix."

Earnest Hartsock, Atlanta student, Thursday issued the following statement:

"After a stormy crisis of an editorial nature during the past year of the Phoenix, involving differences of opinion on ultra-modern theories of an objectionable character, I was forced to withdraw my active support from the magazine about a month ago, and the last issue was entirely in Rowsey's hands. My own poem in the last issue was copied without my consent from a national poetry magazine."

"Although my name remained on the staff, I had absolutely nothing to do with the last issue. Several times during the past school year I have appeared before the Emory authorities to avert suppression of the magazine. My resignation was in the hands of the editor sometime ago, due to a poem which I felt was improper. My attitude has been known on such matters, and I want it clearly understood that such material as was published in the last issue did not pass through my hands, and that I made no contribution to that issue. I may say that I am in favor of modernism, but not filth; literature, but not literature."

Story Causes Action.

"Stripped of its editorial content, the story which is the basis of the Phoenix—A state which recently befell the Torsador, another Emory publication, also on charges of indecency—was generally characterized among men who are not college students as a perfect reflection of the trend of so-called modern literature."

With a review of the experiences of a freshman who is being "rushed" by various fraternities; of the evils of the "spiking" system; of the alleged lies and slander in the pages of the Phoenix; and in order to "win pledges."

Then follows a caricature of a fra-

BRYAN IN PARLEY ONE EVOLUTION CASE

Nashville, Tenn., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Neither the personal beliefs of John Thomas Scopes, nor that of any other person, is a factor in the case against him in the evolution of the divine origin of man, have a bearing upon the test case to be tried at Dayton, Tenn., July 10, according to William Jennings Bryan, who spent two and one-half hours in a hearing today.

Scopes is not being prosecuted as an individual," Mr. Bryan said. "He is a teacher in the public schools, and is being prosecuted for teaching to the children of the public schools the evolution of the divine origin of man, have a bearing upon the test case to be tried at Dayton, Tenn., July 10, according to William Jennings Bryan, who spent two and one-half hours in a hearing today.

There is no abridgement of constitutional rights in the case against Scopes. It is purely a question of determining the right of a state to fix limitations as to what may be taught in its schools.

The commoner, who arrived from St. Louis, was in a hasty spirit, and ready for the battle of wits with the eminent lawyers who are to defend Scopes. He was met by a group of local admirers and Attorney O. H. Hays, of Dayton, retained in the prosecution of the Scopes case.

THE HEAT WAVE.

While the north and central west are sweltering in one of the most terrific heat waves on record, the southeast goes calmly and serenely about its business, perspiring a little but not suffering, and not even seeking shade except in the ordinary processes of daily routine.

While the heat is claiming a severe toll of life in New York, Chicago, Detroit, and so on, and a heat-crazed Ohio father murders his family of eight under the influence of the fiery atmosphere, in the southeast not a single prostration is reported, and but for the occasional friendly salutation, "It's a little warm, isn't it?" there would be no remarks about the weather—except that it is a bit dry.

The southeastern states have the finest year-around weather of any section in the United States. Georgia as a whole has the finest year-around weather in the southeast.

Our only suffering, in the present deplorable heat situation, is for those millions of people who are less fortunate.

MAKING STREETS SAFE.

From interviews in Sunday's Constitution with Mayor Sims and Councilman Harry York relative to Atlanta's traffic accident situation, it is gathered that the councilman will introduce a license ordinance—requiring the examination and licensing of all automobile drivers—and that the mayor approves it.

Qualification, not only as to mechanical knowledge, but as to temperament and morals, should undoubtedly be required of drivers of automobiles. The man who is known to be a run-runner, or a drunkard, or a crook, should not be permitted by law to operate an automobile. Expert crime authorities in this country unhesitatingly place the automobile as one of the leading contributing factors in crime. Why? The automobile itself, in the hands of a competent, careful, moral driver, is as harmless as any other vehicle for conveyance; but the automobile, with its speed, in the hands of a crook is a tremendous force in abetting his designs and plans; and in the hands of a drunken man, is the greatest menace to life and limb known to modern times.

There should be regulations regarding the fitness of those who drive cars, including sufficient age to develop unerring judgment quickly when in a crisis.

Mayor Sims is quoted as saying:

"Automobile owners themselves should cooperate to the limit in observing all traffic regulations at all times. The fact that some drivers think they are to be exempted from the rules causes many accidents. The laws are made for all drivers and should be observed by all drivers, and when there is a failure to observe on the part of one driver, there is possibly an accident which will involve another driver who was observing the law strictly."

It is not improbable that the mayor had reference to the unusual, unwritten license that is granted ambulance drivers. Some distressing accidents have occurred in recent months in Atlanta from collision with hospital ambulances alleged to have been recklessly driven at the time. There is no reason why an ambulance should menace the lives of others on the thoroughfares than that a run car should do so. Reckless driving ought to be prohibited, it matters not what the circumstance may be.

No person can continue to drive an automobile recklessly on the streets for long without killing some other person.

Again, enforcement officers chasing a run car often drive as recklessly, and as menacingly, as the bootleg driver. This should not be so. It is better that a bootlegger escape for a time than to kill somebody in a mad chase along crowded streets and highways. There are other methods of bringing the criminal to the bars. When once seen by diligent and competent officers there is scarcely hope of final escape.

Reckless driving is inexcusable in any person and under any circumstances. Equally as efficient results may be obtained by officers of the law, without recklessness, and without killing people.

GORDON LEE AS FARMER.

Representative Gordon Lee, of the seventh congressional district, is a farmer—a practical Walker county dirt farmer and one of the best in Georgia.

He makes farming pay because he applies the rules of reason in his operations.

He keeps his soil properly built up, just as a merchant who would succeed must keep his shelves properly stocked in order to supply the demands of his trade.

He uses plenty of fertilizer but wisely and as an investment only, just as a successful merchant must wisely use a jealously maintained credit as an investment.

He uses only good and dependable seed, just as a successful merchant would offer only good and dependable merchandise that would "repeat." He employs reliable, hard-working and interested labor, and personally superintends it, just as a manufacturer must have dependable and interested labor, or fail to succeed.

At any rate Mr. Lee, who grows grains and hays and beans and the like principally, has just harvested his barley crop.

The state college of agriculture reports that it ran an average of slightly more than 52 1-2 bushels to the acre.

The average barley crop in Georgia is around to bushels to the acre.

The wheat harvest, which is now under way on Mr. Lee's farm, it is said will be just as pronounced as a record breaker. And so the oats. And the rye.

It simply illustrates what can be done when a farmer keeps his soil strength conserved, and employs intelligent methods of cultivation. Mr. Lee's farm is a dividend payer.

Every farm, under normal growing conditions, ought to pay dividends. It is not properly operated if it does not.

OIL AS AN ISSUE.

Oil will be a big issue in the democratic congressional elections in 1926. It may be "the" big issue. Senator Carraway, of Arkansas, who is in Washington, is quoted as follows:

"The decision of Judge McCormick in the Doherty oil case is one of the finest things in the history of our courts and it leaves not a single possibility of an alibi for those republican senators who in the last session voted for the Spencer minority report, signed by five republican members of the committee on public lands—Smoot, Stanford, Burton, Cameron and Spencer—which report was nothing more or less than an attempt to palliate and excuse that miserable exhibition of corruption upon the part of republican officeholders and greedy oil exploiters."

There were sixteen of the republican senators among those who voted for the minority report who will stand for reelection in 1926. The democrats now propose to go after the scalps of the sixteen on this as the paramount issue.

The democrats who voted against the Spencer report were undoubtedly actuated by patriotism in uncovering the oil graft.

The decision of Judge McCormick throws the issue with a single toss into next year's campaign.

WONDERFUL EDITION.

The 252-page "progress and prosperity edition" of The Charlotte (N. C.) Observer is one of the truly wonderful special numbers ever issued by a southern newspaper.

It is wonderful, not so much in its immense volume, nor in its fitness and almost perfect typography, nor even in the tremendous support given to it by the business interests of the two Carolinas, as it is in the fullness of its information touching every phase of Carolina life, and the character and genuine merit of the scores of special articles that enter into the general symposium. The number in its entirety constitutes a veritable "Carolina year book," and as such each copy—rather each set of eight sections—ought to be bound and maintained in the libraries not only of every person especially interested in the progress of that great state, but as a history of business, industrial, financial and educational evolution in a southern state that has rightfully commanded the admiration of the entire country.

Dawes has converted another senator. He'll be preaching to some purpose if he can coax a few more to the mourner's bench.

Just From Georgia

On the Hallelujah Track.

Old Tribulation. With a variation on your back. We're going to the picnic. On the hallelujah track! Don't you come along. With your solemn song— We want the merry music. And your tune is running wrong!

Home-Town Philosophy.

After the dance with Joy, don't expect to pay the fiddler with a pat on the back. Folks that are willing to meet Providence halfway fare better on the life road.

It's tax to live, and tax to die; and at that you're not sure of free entrance at the last gate.

If heaven looks too high to reach, try and make a little heaven here, and maybe you'll get wings for doing it.

"Let's Be Fair."

This, by the poet of The Louisville Courier-Journal, is addressed to the auto-excursionists everywhere:

"It's fine to go to the country When the dogwood is in trim. But let's be fair and do not tear The dogwood limb from limb."

"It's fine to go to the country. But let's be fair. Let that suffice. Don't drag the country back."

"Realistic work," says William Southern, in his Independence Exam, "talk about an 'overdrawn bank account.' In this country such a thing is practically impossible. An overdrawn bank account presupposes a lot of things which the ordinary fiction characters overlook."

Writing of the fiftieth birthday of The Ashland Bugle, the editor says: "We thought some of stepping down and when we had printed the paper fifty years, but have decided to print it fifty years longer. By that time we expect to be old enough, if not rich enough, to retire."

When the Sand Man Comes. When I sleep you know, and the day slips out. Thro' the lonesome fields of night, When the stars just wink at me, and the moon Comes up so round and white.

When the fire in the grate burns big and red, Then Daddy comes home to stay. And he says, as he puts his hand on my head: "Have you been a nice man today?"

When I say, "Yes, sir," he says, "Tut, tut. But he smiles as he rocks, and hums. Then he says, 'Better get those blue eyes shut. Before the old Sand Man comes.'"

So he rocks, while I try to count the sheep. As they gallop across his knee, And I count and count till I fall fast asleep.

With his strong arms holding me.—WILL D. MUSE.

Says the Deacon. "When things haven't gone to suit us," says the deacon, "we haven't hesitated to call it 'a world of trouble and sorrow,' but the other day we arrived at the 70-year station, and the old world looks mighty good to us, and we've changed the old-time tune to one of thankfulness. We're still in it, and far from being ready to resign."

Editor Constitution: I notice in your issue of May 29 a contribution from Rev. Sam Small, submitting certain election figures to show that the democratic party can expect little of the north and east.

Mr. Small figures pretty close. I have been thinking of the thing I would like to impress upon southern democracy. It is this, that whenever our national platform or either our candidates for president or vice president is regarded as flattered with the support of the north and east, the electoral vote of states of the north and east nor of the border states. In the rock-ribbed democratic state of Maryland, where Hon. John W. Davis is very popular, the vote of the state is given by 14,000 majority principally because the name Bryan was on the ticket, while in the preceding election Governor Ritchie, an old-line Jeffersonian democrat, carried that state by over 400 majority.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

A Farthing For the Lord.

There seems to be a slowly gaining revolt in several American cities against the practice of holding tag-days. Hardly a week passes in the great metropolitan centers but pedestrians are "urged and begged" to contribute to this or that worthy cause or undertaking. In Chicago a body of citizens have asked the chief of police to "show and suggest" in connection with the number of tag-days has been officially reduced to one per month. It is not the first time in history that objection was taken to public collections. As far back as the era of Louis XIV the clergy inveigled against the abuses which had grown up in connection with making special monetary appeals to the citizens of Paris. In those days the taggers did not even hesitate to "show and suggest" in connection with the number of tag-days has been officially reduced to one per month. GEORGIA BOOSTERS GATHER IN MACON

With 50 Atlantans in attendance as well as representatives of practically every other city in the state, the Georgia Boosters club will meet at Macon today. The Atlanta delegation, headed by Mayor Walter A. Sims and R. S. Barker, secretary of the chamber of commerce, together with the Savannah representatives, left for Macon Thursday night. Plans for the greatest advertising campaign in the history of Georgia are expected to be laid today, with the object of spreading the gospel of Georgia's natural resources and other advantages to all parts of the world. Several other organizations have joined in the movement.

"Georgia is one of the greatest states in the country, and needs only the proper sort of advertising to place her in her rightful position," the mayor said Thursday. "Our object is to arrange for that kind of advertising, and details of the campaign will be discussed at Macon."

In addition, a movement for improving Georgia's highway will be launched with special stress laid on the proposed Mountain-to-Sea highway, and the probability of placing Georgia on the proposed government air mail route also will be discussed.

Apnea Leads Savannah Party. Andrew Apnea, prominent Savannah hotelier and a director of the Savannah board of trade, led the Savannah delegation into Atlanta Thursday, en route to the Macon meeting. Following a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel with Mayor Sims and other Atlantans, the party left for Macon.

Mr. Apnea was one of the leaders in the Mountain-to-Sea Highway association, and a founder of the Georgia Boosters club. He took prominent part in the movement to place the state on the air mail route. Previous to leaving Savannah Wednesday night, he was elected president of the Savannah Progressive club, one of that city's leading civic organizations.

An elaborate program has been arranged for today's meeting, which opens at the Denham hotel at 9:30 o'clock. Among this morning's speakers will be Dr. A. M. Soule, head of the University of Georgia agricultural college; O. B. Martin, of the United States department of agriculture, and J. J. Brown, state commissioner of agriculture, who will speak on diversified farming.

Other talks will be made by Mrs. W. N. Leitch, of Easton, on financing of dairy cows; W. W. Webb, of Valdosta, on the hog market; and Professor J. H. Wood, of the University of Georgia, on the egg industry.

J. Phil Campbell of the state college of agriculture's extension department, will speak this afternoon session, while Mrs. Williams, state entomologist, will give a talk on fighting the boll weevil. The Huff-Deland company will demonstrate the use of the cotton dusting machine in the fight against the pest.

The Macon Chamber of Commerce will serve a barbecue at the end of the morning session.

In addition to Atlanta and Savannah, the following cities will be among those represented: Ashbury, Fitzgerald, Douglas, Tallapoosa, Valdosta, Albany, Waycross, Sylvester, Tifton, Bainbridge, Griffin, Milledgeville, Swainsboro, Athens and Thomasville.

1925 CITY PENSION FIGHT COMES TO END

Signature of Mayor Walter A. Sims, attached Thursday to pension checks of 13 former city employees, ended the 1925 pension fight, which has raged since early this year. Pensions for the remainder of the year will aggregate more than $2,000.

The mayor's action was taken after he had been advised by City Attorney James L. Mayson that there was no other course, as the city health officer had ruled that the men in question were entitled to pensions. Council Monday overrode the mayor's veto of the pension bill, and the mayor had indicated his intention of throwing the entire matter into the courts by refusing to sign the checks.

"Many of the men receiving pensions are able to work, and some are earning more money now than when they were employed by the city," the mayor said. "Pensions are costing the city more than $5,000 annually."

GIRL SCOUTS' CAMP WILL OPEN JUNE 27

Camp Civitania for Girl Scouts, located 10 miles west of the city on the Bankhead highway, will open June 27 with Mrs. Frank D. Holland as camp director. It was announced Thursday.

Staff and general counselors follow: Mrs. Holland, camp director; Mrs. J. G. Throver, secretary; Miss Berna J. Galloway, graduate nurse, first aid and home nursing; Mrs. J. S. Brail, swimming; Miss Ethel Miller, Miss M. C. Robinson, Scout Ruth H. Smith, and Emmet Karston, swimming assistants; Mrs. Karl Karston and Miss Irma Dohs, nature work; Miss Lute Seese, singing and dramatics; Miss Louise Pappenhimer and Miss Mattie Garber, handicraft.

Many activities will occupy the Girl Scouts at Camp Civitania this season. There will be shop, map making, and special scout instruction in charge of Scout Josephine Newbury and First-Class Scout Edna Karston, a Golden Eagle.

William H. Singleton, First-Class Boy Scout, will be at camp all summer. Mrs. Malcolm Fleming is to direct the garden and grounds, nature work, out-of-door games, map making, star gazing, pioneer craft, and cooking will be stressed in the camp in preference to work that can be done during the winter.

Civitania is building a hut at the camp in addition to one which was a gift from the Junior League, another a memorial hut from a council member, and another from the Kiwanis club. John Miller, Civitan, gave the camp hospital.

The camp is equipped with a pool 250 feet long, which was financed by the scouts, the leaders and the council. The original plot of acres was a gift from the Civitan club. Mrs. Albert Thornton gave the assembly hall.

Work on the camp has been directed by Civitan Park Dallas and Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, assisted by the camp committee: Mrs. J. G. Throver, Mrs. H. L. Parry, Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mrs. Lee Ashcraft and Mrs. Holland.

MRS. C. H. COBB INJURED IN CRASH NEAR COVINGTON

Mrs. C. H. Cobb, 65, of 296 Washington street, received a broken right arm and serious cuts about the body late Thursday when her daughter, Mrs. Hazel C. Evans, lost control of a light coupe on a sharp turn near Covington.

Mrs. N. E. Harris, Mrs. Evans' sister, also was in the automobile, but no report was available as to whether or not she was injured. They were brought to Atlanta in a Dixie coach, and Mrs. Cobb is receiving treatment at Grady hospital.

Mrs. Evans shot and killed her husband about a year ago, but was tried and exonerated before the DeKalb county grand jury.

Curiosity Reigns At Annual Sale Of 'Lost' Articles

Curiosity lurks in every human heart—and in some so strongly that it costs money to satisfy it.

That is the reason the American Railway Express catches each year on broken chairs, smashed mirrors, cracked dishes and other pieces of an assortment of shipments which are untraced for various reasons.

Thursday the annual sale of the company was held at its Courtland street warehouse.

Many things were dragged out, dusted off and paraded before the six-bit, dollar, dollar-and-a-half and two-dollar audience. Some of the pieces disposed of palpably were chairs, cots, boxes and merchandise easily detected, and other things for which the bidding was desultory and weak, but the auctioneer hauled out boxes which were sealed tight, so that it was not easy to hazard a guess at what the contents might be, my word!

The bidding whooped up as curious fingers poked and pried and jabbed. One youth became so excited over tightly-bound boxes of corrugated paper that he bought two of them, not realizing the second time that he was buying two identical packages. Someone asked him what was in the second one.

"Dugged if I know," he replied, and began to pull it open. He disclosed one of these trick electric signs advertising a popular cigar, and then discovered, greatly to his amazement and regret, that he was the owner of two of them. Unless he is in the cigar business, he has satisfied his curiosity—and that only.

The auctioneer hauled out a round, pasteboard box. No doubt as to what it should be, and in the instant it was opened, it was a head brought a quarter.

Chairs with legs missing did a rousing business. Several of them were sold for a quarter each. A good repair man could fix them good as new. They are en route to the second-hand stores.

LIGHT OPERA COMPANY READY FOR PREMIERE

With a letter perfect rehearsal Thursday night by all the principals, the big production of "The Mikado," the first of the series to be produced during Atlanta's first season of municipal light opera was pronounced complete save for a few minor details.

The cast and directors tonight will start work on "The Prince of Pilsen," the tuncful humorous Luder opera scheduled for the second week.

Costumes for "The Mikado," which launches the season June 15, are to arrive the latter part of this week from New York, where they have been made to order for the Atlanta company. They will be worn for the first time at the dress rehearsal next Friday.

The same rigorous program of two daily rehearsals which has enabled perfection of "The Mikado" in less than a week's time will be carried out during the next week of work on "The Prince of Pilsen." The Mikado, the first of the other operas of the season, "The Spring Maid," June 29; "The Gypsy Baron," July 6; "The Firefly," July 13, and "Sweetheart," July 20, will be rehearsed from time to time during the week to afford variety to the work of the singers and prevent all possibility of the company becoming "over-trained" on any one of the operas.

TWO MEN SENTENCED UNDER-NARCOTIC ACT

R. D. McDuffie and Roy Akridge, two young white men of Atlanta, entered pleas of guilty in federal court Thursday to a charge of violating the Harris narcotic law and were given sentences in the federal prison. Judge Samuel Shibley sentenced McDuffie to serve one year and one day and Akridge was sentenced to serve nine months.

Just 130 Rooms in all

Atlanta men have been quick to realize the thoroughness with which their desires have been met in the Carlton—Atlanta's newest residence for men—and more than a hundred have already made their reservations.

Many men of education and refinement—the kind you are proud to call your friends—have engaged rooms to be occupied when The Carlton opens its doors July 1st.

Speed will henceforth be an essential for the man who wishes to live here, for the remaining rooms are being rapidly reserved.

This ideal residence for men will combine the three essentials of the perfect bachelor existence: the privacy of a well-ordered home, the ready service of a better hotel and the select companionship of an exclusive club.

And the rates are surprisingly low! Call Hemlock 4675 today for full information. A representative will be glad to call at your office with floor plans, so that you may make your choice.

ELECTRONIC SOCIETY CLOSES CONVENTION

Election of officers, passage of resolutions thanking Atlanta newspapers for courtesies and a demonstration of disease diagnosis by radio, Thursday marked the closing session of the three-day convention of the Southern Electronic society at the Henry Grady hotel. Delegates from all parts of the south attended. Dr. M. C. Hardin was in charge of arrangements for the convention.

Dr. Albert Abrams, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected president; Dr. Dan H. Bredlow, of Valdosta, vice president, and Dr. F. B. S. Harrison, of Greenville, S. C., secretary.

The executive committee was composed of Drs. M. V. Kidwell, of Jackson, Miss.; L. G. Robinson, New Smyrna, Fla.; H. E. Jones, Roanoke, Va., and M. L. Faulk, Lexington, Ky.

The radio theory is based on electronic vibrations of the blood. Diseases change the vibration of the blood since they vibrate at different rates. It is said, and when they become dominant they control the blood vibrations. To determine what a disease is, one has to know only its vibration, the electronists state.

Dr. Albert Abrams, who was for several years professor of pathology at Leland Stanford university, has invented a machine which will record these vibrations by taking blood tests. Members of the association Thursday saw malaria, which registers four, and pellagra, which registers 53 vibrations, tested by the machine. The use of radio is the latest form of diagnosing and it is believed will be used extensively by experts in sicknesses which are hard to trace by present methods.

PROHIBITION TRAP 15 ALLEGED TIGERS

Fifteen arrests were made Thursday by federal prohibition officers in the drive against bootleggers launched under direction of Fred Dismukes, federal prohibition director. The men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Joe Abbott who released them under bonds of $500 each to await action by the federal grand jury which will convene today.

White men arrested were George Toney, 7 Piedmont avenue; Ralph Pope and Jack Boddy, 90 West Peachtree street; Tom Hardin, 15 East Harris street; "Pop" Andrews, 25 Porter place, and Ben Corbin and Aubrey Bank, who furnished officers with no address.

Negroes arrested were Tim Benton, 104 1-2 Belmont street; Ralph Perry, rear of 151 Houston street; Dewitt Hector, 65 Bell street; Frank Jackson, 277 Chestnut street; John Daniell, 360 Chapel street; Willie Daniel, 352 Mangum street; Joe Haines, 165 Gilmer street and Will Shelton, who furnished officers with no address.

All these men will be summoned as witnesses to appear before the grand jury, it was learned, and it is on their evidence that prohibition officers will direct their drive against wholesale dealers in liquor in Atlanta, they stated.

STATE BUDGET BOARD MEETS THIS MORNING

The state budget committee, created by act of the legislature to submit recommendations for appropriations to be made by the incoming assembly, will meet in the office of Governor Clifford Walker today.

The committee is composed of the governor, who is ex-officio chairman, controller general, attorney general, chairmen of the finance and ways and means committees of the senate, and chairmen of the appropriations and finance committees of the house.

A survey commission, appointed by Governor Walker to survey financial needs of all state departments and state supported institutions, completed its work Tuesday when it drew up its final report and recommendations to be submitted to the legislature.

It is understood that the governor will lay the findings of the survey commission before the budget committee at the meeting today.

$10,000 VOTED NEGRO WARD AT HOSPITAL

A fund of $10,000 is available for repairing and enlarging the negro ward of Grady hospital, it was announced Thursday, following the voting of a fund of $5,000 by Fulton county commissioners to match a similar fund from the city of Atlanta. The commissioners held a meeting Wednesday.

"UNCLE DAN" HALTS FLIGHT OF CLARENCE

"Uncle" Dan Cook, retired police veteran, Thursday proved that his early years of training had not been forgotten, when he stopped the wild flight of Clarence Jones, 14-year-old negro, who had just stolen a radio switch from a five and ten cent store, according to police. Jones was fleeing toward Five Points with two stolen radios in his pursuit, when "Uncle" Dan made his first prisoner for several years. The alleged thief was turned over to the juvenile court.

Highway Audit Report Expected Early Next Week

Governor Clifford Walker announced Thursday that he is expecting the report of the audit of the state highway department, made by C. H. Dawson & Co., to reach his office early next week, and added that the report will be made public as soon as possible. It is understood that the final report on this audit is now being typed.

Dawson & Co. have been at work on the audit since last February, when the firm was appointed to the work by the governor on request of W. T. Anderson and Stanley S. Bennett, two members of the highway board.

A preliminary report was made by the auditor in March and it was on strength of charges in this preliminary report that the governor based his action in revoking the commission of John N. Holder, as chairman of the board.

The preliminary report did not cite figures on the conditions at the highway department but merely introduced affidavits concerning alleged advances in salary secured by Mr. Holder, which, it was claimed, were later paid back.

The supreme court held, however, that Governor Walker did not have authority to revoke Holder's commission and he since has resumed his duties as chairman of the department.

Another audit, the official audit by Sam J. Slate, state auditor, was begun in April and it is understood it also will be ready for publication at an early date.

$48.75 IS RECEIVED FOR FIREMEN'S FUND

Subscriptions totalling $48.75 were added to the firemen's relief fund Thursday and the committee in charge of its distribution will meet in a few days to check up final totals. The fund now amounts to more than $21,000 and will be divided among the families of the six firemen who were killed in the Decatur street warehouse fire last month.

Subscriptions Monday were as follows: Pickett Manufacturing company $25; Mrs. R. M. W. $25, and the office of supervisor of schools, $18.50.

WORK ON NEW CHURCH WILL BEGIN AT ONCE

Construction work on a $50,000 building for Jackson Hill Baptist church at the corner of North Boulevard and Rankin streets will begin immediately, it was announced Thursday by Rev. R. K. Redwine, pastor. Services are being held in a temporary structure at North Jackson street warehouse fire last month.

Following the big Atlanta fire several years ago when the church was destroyed, it is hoped to have the new building ready for occupancy in the early fall.

LEGIONNAIRES MEET AT LUNCHEON TODAY

The regular weekly luncheon of the American Legion will be held at 12:30 o'clock today at the chamber of commerce. The program will include songs by the legion mixed quartet and other features.

W. B. Cawthon, secretary, will preside at the meeting, and urge the attendance of all legionnaires and ex-service men.

RESOLUTIONS REGRET DEATH OF NORCROSS

Resolutions regretting the death of Paul H. Norcross, former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who was drowned when the steamer M. E. Norman sank in the Mississippi river near Memphis, were adopted Thursday by the woman's division of the chamber of commerce. The resolutions extend sympathy to his family.

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD FOR TEACHER

Resolutions of condolence on the death of Miss Anne Barnwell, teacher for 15 years in Commercial High school, were adopted Thursday morning by the faculty and student body at memorial services held in the school auditorium.

Prof. W. A. Sutton, school superintendent, and H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent, joined in the service. Mr. Sutton made a short talk, speaking of Miss Barnwell's loyalty and faithfulness as a teacher. W. C. Lowe presented the resolutions for the committee.

DASHIEL TO TEACH MILITARY SCIENCE IN SCHOOLS HERE

Colonel William Dashiell, retired, has been called back to active duty and will be assigned as instructor of military science and tactics in Atlanta high schools. It was announced Thursday from fourth corps area headquarters.

Colonel Dashiell will succeed Major Gaston, who has retired to engage in business in Charleston, S. C. He is well-known in Atlanta, where he has been on several assignments in his long service as a government official.

Springfield Is Named To Succeed Collier On Service Commission

Robert M. Springfield has been elected secretary of the Georgia public service commission. It was announced Thursday at offices of the commission in the state capital. Mr. Springfield succeeds Albert Collier, who resigned effective June 1.

Mr. Springfield is a native of Rome, Ga., but recently has been reported for the South Carolina railroad commission at Columbia, S. C. At one time he was connected with the Atlanta offices of the Southern railway. He is expected to assume his new duties within the next few days.

On Thursday the commission granted authority to the Columbus Electric & Power company to issue $1,000,000 in 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, the proceeds of the issue to be used for hydro-electric improvements and development in the Columbus territory.

Permission also was granted the Southern railway to discontinue Norcross Ga., as a stop for its train number 30, known as the "Birmingham special."

No decision was made Thursday on the petition of the Atlanta Northern railway for increased fares on its interurban line between Atlanta and Marietta.

A. & P. Chain Store Stock Now Offered to Employees

Employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company are now able to buy stock in the company for the first time in its history, according to announcement by Benjamin F. Vinson, of Atlanta, vice president in charge of the southern division.

In line with the new plan adopted by the company through formation of a Maryland corporation to hold stock of operating companies, employees can buy either common or preferred stock to the amount of 10 per cent of their wages for the past year or 10 per cent of their annual wages.

Employees who have been with the company for five years will be allowed to subscribe to common stock for 10 per cent of their wages for the past year, and those in the employ of the A. & P. for over one year to preferred stock to 10 per cent of their annual wages.

Atlanta To Benefit.
The company has a large number of its chain stores here and many local people are given employment in them. Through the new ruling, they can participate in the profits of the concern.

With more than $352,000,000 a year passing over the counters of 12,000 stores throughout the country, this means a great deal to employees all through the United States, officials pointed out.

Coincident with the above important change, a new plan of operation has been instituted to take care of future expansion which, when established, will run the total sales for the current year well over $420,000,000, it is said.

Founded in 1859 with a single store in New York city, the company has been a pioneer in the chain store field and now leads all others, according to recently compiled figures. From the humble beginning in 1859 to the year 1930, when Collis P. Huntington and Leland Stanford joined the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific, making a direct railroad connection from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the business prospered, and George Huntington Hartford, founder and first president of the tea company, foresaw a chain of stores eventually reaching from coast to coast.

The new ruling was put into effect Thursday, namely, to promote closer relationship between capital and labor. All of the stock was formerly held by the founder and then the family of the founder, and the action announced through Mr. Vinson is an absolutely new departure on the company's part.

The change is consistent with the policy of the founder and his sons, as John A. Hartford, president of the company, states that he and his brother, George I. Hartford, were more interested "in the making of men than in the making of money," the announcement says. "The loyalty fostered by this policy has been properly estimated to be one of the chief factors in the success of the company, as it gives each employee an opportunity to climb the ladder," the announcement continues.

Through ownership of its own producing plants and its direct connection in foreign fields, the A. & P. company has been enabled to cut the cost of foods sold over its counters; savings thus made by consumers have been the dominant factor in its steady expansion, the announcement declares. The company has factories and canneries, its own cheese-packing and storage plants, and owns the largest single evaporator-condensery in the world, officials point out.

ELLIS WITHDRAWS FROM KEELY CO.

The partnership of Keely company, consisting of R. E. O'Donnell, John Morris, F. S. Ellis and John Morris, Jr., Thursday was changed by withdrawal of Mr. Ellis from the firm.

Mr. Ellis has sold his entire interest in the firm to R. E. O'Donnell and John Morris, Sr., who with their associate, John Morris, Jr., will continue the partnership under the same name and at the same address.

This partnership was formed in August, 1888, 37 years ago, and the three senior partners, R. E. O'Donnell, John Morris, Sr., and F. S. Ellis, have continued in equal partnership from that time until now. In May, 1916, John Morris, Jr., acquired an interest as junior partner and has continued as such with the firm since that time.

Mr. O'Donnell and Mr. Morris have bought the entire interests of Mr. Ellis in the firm, and they announced Thursday that the former members will assume the obligations of Keely company.

Mr. Ellis will withdraw from a much-needed rest, as well as to give his individual outside interests.

The business of Keely company is in no way affected by the withdrawal of Mr. Ellis, the former members will continue the same methods and policy that has proven successful for the past 37 years.

State Is Urged To Aid in Cure Of Drug Addicts

Give the dope fiend a chance. That's the advice given Georgia and other states by United States Commissioner Joe Abbott.

"The time has come for the states to establish institutions which will take care of narcotic addicts, give them proper treatment, which will eventually cure them, and turn them back into society equipped to rehabilitate themselves," he said.

Commissioner Abbott, who holds preliminary examinations in cases of persons arrested on charges of violating the Harris Narcotic act, has had wide experience in this work.

In a large percentage of the cases I have examined I have found people who would make good citizens if they could free themselves of the narcotic habit but who are unable to do this under our present system. If the states would erect special institutions to handle this class of cases I am sure that numerous men could be reclaimed from the habit and turned into good citizens."

Commissioner Abbott Thursday received a letter from a prisoner he had committed to the Fulton tower to be held for trial in the federal court. This prisoner begged that he be allowed to go to the federal prison. "I believe that would be the best thing that could happen to me in my present condition," he wrote. "I don't get to some institution like this I'll die."

"The great evil of the narcotic cure now is that it reaches so many young people," Commissioner Abbott said. "I have found numerous cases of mere boys, charged with violations of the narcotic act. After they become addicts they are not wholly responsible for their actions and soon drift into the commission of other crimes. If such cases were handled in time much crime would be prevented."

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA MADE BY WOMAN

Mrs. Lula Howard, charged with the murder of B. P. McKinney, Thursday afternoon began a fight for life in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior when the state opened its case by producing "Billy" Williams, of Port Lauderdale, Fla., as the first witness. After he left the stand a recess was taken until 9 o'clock this morning when the state will offer other witnesses.

"Jurymen—go to their homes for the night after agreement of Attorneys William Schley Howard, and Walter LeCrew, for the defense, and Assistant Solicitor General John Hudson, prosecutor. This is a rather unusual procedure, but is regular on agreement of both defense and prosecution lawyers," it is said.

Mrs. Howard entered a plea of self-defense and will testify that McKinney was intoxicated at the time she shot him at her apartment, at 252 Courtland street, on the night of May 9. He was advancing on her at the time and she fired in defense of her life, according to her attorney.

Alma Collins, a young woman also under indictment for murder in the same case, is expected to go on the stand as one of the principal state witnesses against Mrs. Howard. It is charged that she urged Mrs. Howard to shoot McKinney and that the latter followed her suggestion.

Williams is said to have been an eyewitness to the killing, and related a story of how it occurred, saying he was within about 15 feet of the scene at the time. Three other persons, a man, and two girls, were with him in a machine nearby, he said. They will be called to the stand by state attorneys, it was announced Thursday night.

WRIGHT SLAYERS TO BASE APPEAL ON "NEW" EVIDENCE

Attorneys for Ted Coggeshall and F. W. McClelland, sentenced to death for the slaying of W. C. Wright, Putnam county school superintendent, stated Thursday that recently discovered evidence probably will bring a new trial for the doomed youths.

Appeal for new trial was filed in the state supreme court on Wednesday. The new testimony, attorneys said, is to be given by a truck driver, who states he carried the two boys from Decatur to Monroe at the time of the killing. It is stated that the new evidence was discovered through efforts of J. L. Coggeshall, father of Ted, who has been working night and day in the effort to save his son from the death chair.

The new trial hearing before the supreme court is set for the first Monday in July.

Professor Wright was slain when he gave a lift in his car to two youths he overtook walking on a road near Eatonton. The killers took the car and the dying teacher later was found by the side of the road by passing motorists. He died in the hospital the following day.

TECH SENIORS WIN ARCHITECTURE AWARDS

Professor John L. Skinner, of the department of architecture at Georgia Tech, has received a telegram from Cornell university announcing that Georgia Tech seniors have won first and second prizes in the twelfth annual southern intercollegiate competition.

P. Almond, of Elberton, won first prize and J. R. Britt, of 25 Penn avenue, Atlanta, won second prize. Both Mr. Almond and Mr. Britt will receive degrees from Tech at commencement exercises Monday, June 8.

In winning this competition these students have gained high honors in scholarship for themselves and have brought prestige to Georgia Tech.

The southern intercollegiate competition in architecture is an annual event and is the most important scholarship contest in which a student of architecture may participate during his college course. It is said.

The schools which entered the competition this year are: University of Virginia, Rice institute, Auburn, Texas A. & M., North Carolina State and Clemson.

ATTORNEY'S WIFE JOINS HUSBAND IN NEW LAW FIRM

Mrs. Coral West Craighead, wife of Edgar R. Craighead, Atlanta attorney, was admitted Thursday to the bar of Fulton superior court, and during the morning filed her first petition.

Mrs. Craighead received her diploma Wednesday from the Atlanta Law school, where she won the Kallaghan company prize for scholastic excellence, a set of Andrews' American law books.

Mrs. Craighead now joins her husband in the Craighead & Craighead law firm. Her first petition was for C. Lynch, P. H. Dobbin and B. W. Watson, of Fulton county, and M. L. Shropshire, of DeKalb county, for incorporation of the Pay-Day Beverage company for 20 years, with a capital stock of $250,000 and the privilege of increasing the capital stock to $1,000,000.

McCLURE IS FINED $51 FOR SPEEDING ON NIGHT OF CRASH

Steve R. McClure, of 61 Elizabeth street, son of C. W. McClure, Atlanta capitalist, Thursday was fined $51 in police court by Recorder Calloway on charges of reckless driving and speeding. The case grew out of an accident on the night of March 31, when an automobile driven by young McClure skidded into a telephone pole at Spring and Peach streets, and A. R. Burke was killed in the accident.

The Fulton grand jury recently indicted McClure on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. In police court McClure was represented by William Schley Howard. A representative of the Burke family appeared in court and requested that the case be made as light as possible on McClure.

NEW HOUSE NUMBER WORK IS UNDERWAY

Property owners on Argonne avenue, Felton drive and Glen Iris drive, all in the fourth ward, will be the first to receive new house numbers under the recently adopted system. It was announced Thursday by R. W. Torres, engineer and secretary of the city planning commission, who is in charge of the work.

Notices probably will be mailed to residents of those streets this week. Mr. Torres said, asking them to report to the planning commission's office at 111 Peach street, bringing their old numbers with them, so that new numbers may be issued.

"2 KILLED—4 HURT"

In Accidents in Atlanta June 4."---Newspaper Headline.

From a headline in The Constitution June 4: "Train-Car Crash (near Forsyth, Ga.) Injures Two Women."

Such headlines as these tell their own story of the growing wave of traffic tragedies.

Although The Constitution has been telling the people of Atlanta and Georgia of the great Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance Reader Service it is rendering to its subscribers and their families between the ages of 15 and 70—telling them and urging them for nearly four years to secure this protection at once, not one of those killed or injured referred to in the headlines had taken advantage of The Constitution's great accident insurance protection offer.

Would $7,500.00
or $1,000.00

be worth anything to your family if you were killed or maimed in a travel accident, automobile accident or wreck, or by being struck or knocked down while crossing or walking the street? If not protected, why delay, when the cost is only $1.00 to Constitution subscribers?

Do It Now! Tomorrow May Be Too Late!

YOU MAY BE KILLED TODAY!

Get This Protection NOW--Today!
Before It Is Too Late!

Over $26,000.00 has already been paid to Constitution subscribers in death and accident claims. The best is none too good for Constitution subscribers and their families, and the protection you get through The Constitution is by far the best offered by any Southern Newspaper.

CONSTITUTION POLICY COVERS YOU IF KILLED or INJURED

Junior Prom Initiates Week Of Tech Commencement Affairs

Initiating the social program of Georgia Tech commencement was the junior prom, a brilliant event taking place Thursday evening in the new Tech gymnasium.

The gymnasium was elaborately decorated in gold and white, the school colors, graceful streamers of which were draped in sunburst fashion from the ceiling. From the center of the ceiling was suspended a huge crystal ball reflecting lovely golden tints.

The Paul Brese orchestra, of Chicago, rendered a program of late dance music throughout the evening.

The grand march and the figures were led by Ivan Williams, president of the junior class, with Miss Malzie Huffaker, and Douglas Wycoff with Miss Josephine Douglas.

Miss Douglas wore a lovely dancing frock of green chiffon elaborately trimmed in crystal fringe.

Miss Huffaker was a charming figure wearing a gown of white chiffon and lace.

At midnight supper was served in the garden at the rear of the gymnasium. The guests were seated at small tables which were topped by attractive Japanese umbrellas. A lovely feature of decorations were numerous Japanese lanterns which were suspended from the trees and shrubbery, adding a pretty oriental touch to the scene.

Official chaperons for the various affairs include Dean and Mrs. W. Vernon Skiles, Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, Professor and Mrs. A. H. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Raine, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Street, Mrs. Edward K. Van Winkle, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, Mrs. Charles Northen and others.

Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain will receive the members of the senior class of the Georgia School of Technology at their home, 142 West North avenue, on Friday afternoon, June 5, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Assisting in the reception will be Governor and Mrs. N. E. Harris, Dean and Mrs. W. Vernon Skiles, and the following young ladies: Misses Sarah Sanders, Corday Rice, Marion Wolff, Anne Spalding, Edna Belle Raine, Irene Thomas, Helen Cody, Jean Williams, Lula Lewis, Nell Clayton, Josephine Douglas and Mrs. Tom Blackman.

Interesting Program To Open Municipal Market Saturday

Arrangements are completed for the formal opening of the season at the Municipal market Saturday morning, when the Georgia farmers will present beautifully decorated booths, supplied with all kinds of appetizing home-grown products for the family use and delicious fruits of many varieties.

A splendid, substantial plow has been offered the farmers by Beck & Gregg Hardware company for the most attractive market booth arranged for the opening. The judges for the contest will be Mayor Walter Sims, Edwin Johnson and John Slaton, Jr. Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, will present the prize to the winner in the contest and all farmers will compete for the prize.

Mrs. Harold Roberts, chairman of the market committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, is chairman of arrangements and has invited the leaders of all large organizations, including Mayor Walter Sims, County Commissioner Edwin Johnson, John Slaton, Jr., president, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president City Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. John A. Perdue, president U. D. C.; Mrs. R. L. Turman, president Atlanta League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Clifford Walker.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. Irving Thomas, who are members of the market board of managers, will act as official hostesses of the occasion. Other members of the market board will attend as will Colonel William Lawson Peel, president. The officers of the women's club will assist Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Roberts in receiving the visitors.

Miss Lucy Wood, chairman of Fulton county home demonstration work, will exhibit the Girls' club products, consisting of jams, jellies, relishes, and will serve some of these delicacies with hot biscuit during the opening as to prove their worth.

A local band will furnish music for the opening, and beautiful souvenirs will be given away by the farmers of the market. Everything fresh and fine will be on market at this time and the housewife will have an opportunity for selecting a week's supply of home-grown vegetables, fresh poultry and dairy products, fruits and home-made preserves. The entire public is invited.

Mrs. Roberts is assisted in arrangements by Mrs. T. G. Delph, Mrs. I. E. Jessup, Mrs. John Manget, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. Clyde Pyburn, Mrs. R. J. Reed, Mrs. Walter Sims, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. Norman Poole, Mrs. W. O. Foote, Mrs. J. E. Springer, Mrs. S. R. Dull, Mrs. Turner Carson, Mrs. Mae Bailey, Mrs. R. L. Teach Peace in Schoolroom, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter Urges

By Bessie S. Stafford.
Editor Women's Department of The Constitution.

West Baden, Ind., June 4.—Calling upon clubwomen throughout the United States to "patronize newspapers that insist upon a high tone of clean journalism, and to refrain from purchasing those which do not conform to this ideal," the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in session here today added its voice to what was termed "a growing sentiment for high-class, moral, constructive newspaper standards."

The resolution to this effect adopted by the biennial council today is directly addressed to individual members of clubs in every state in the union.

Entrance of the United States into the world court with the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge reservation; creation of a department of education with a secretary in the executive cabinet; disapproval of the Wadsworth bill for a method of amending the constitution of the United States if again introduced; approval of the bill to establish the status of policemen as regards rank and compensation, and creation of a commission to make an adequate survey of waterways of the country, were high lights of resolutions adopted at the Thursday afternoon session of the federation.

A resolution which advised postponement of effort to bring about universal marriage and divorce laws and to make an intensive study of the subject caused a lively debate and was referred back to the committee to come up Friday morning.

These features shared general interest with the address of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, national chairman of the department of international relations, who only recently returned from a tour of inspection of European conditions.

"Steps for the general federation to take in bringing about a cure for the fear of war are to take up the problem of text-books and the teaching in our schools, to make such teaching broader and more international," Mrs. Winter said.

"Mothers can do much in creating a broader viewpoint in the ideas of the children. These two things we can control," she declared. "We are no longer isolated. There is international disease, health, finance and government. We cannot separate ourselves from the rest of the world any longer."

Europe's War Fear.

Continuing along these lines, she said: "We are too complacently comfortable over here. We do not hear the rumbling in the other world. Waves and waves of war lie behind them in their history. The most noticeable thing in France and everywhere is the intense trembling fear which is keeping the countries leery to the objective of hitting first. Abroad they believe that the next war is a matter of hours. European opinion is that we American women are the first instruments for healing this fear, through friendship and broad-minded understanding. The American Women's clubs in Paris and London are doing a great deal toward bringing American women abroad together and establishing better feeling between America and the countries in which they have taken up residence. The ideal of brotherhood must be beaten into our heads. We are the greatest and most powerful nation, and although France does not realize it, the most idealistic people."

"I want to put it up to the federation to invite Queen Mary, of Roumania, to visit America, as she wishes to do, as the guest of the club women of the United States. Before this can be accomplished the government's O. K. will have to be secured. Perhaps she can be ousted, as our federation meeting July, 1926, at Atlantic City, N. J."

Mrs. Inman to Preside.

The crowning event in the biennial council will be the program of Friday evening with Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, of Atlanta, national chairman of fine arts, in charge, and Lodaro Taft as the speaker, his subject to be "The Gospel of Beauty." The department of fine arts embraces the divisions of art, music and literature. The chairman, Miss Rose V. Berry, of the division of art, calls attention to the one hundredth anniversary of the American Art institution and urges Americans to foster and study American art. The music division has had more requests for information than any other branch of federation work in the past few months. The division chairman calls attention to the loan music libraries for the smaller communities. These are being sent everywhere and are giving the isolated communities an opportunity to hear the better music in music. Friday evening the art division will give a brilliant dinner, Mrs. Rose V. Berry, of New York, presiding.

The winners of the book budget contest will be announced, this contest having been conducted under Mrs. Inman's department. Resolutions on endorsement of the film of the National Music League by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which promises to make its ideals and purposes known to the club women of America, proposed by Mrs. Inman, Mrs. H. S. Godfrey and Mrs. Marx Oberdorfer, will be proposed.

The southeastern council met Thursday morning to pass resolutions on the bereavement in the family of L. H. Jennings, of South Carolina, who was called home from the meeting. The council is composed of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Florida and Alabama. A full representation from each state was present and Mrs. James E. Hays, of Montezuma, presided. The southeastern council meets in Chattanooga in the fall.

Junior Memberships.

The condensed result of Wednesday's open forum was returned Thursday morning by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Grace Ecker-Poole, of the Massachusetts junior membership.

First, junior clubs should be formed chiefly as auxiliaries or departments of the main club, each junior club to have limited independence of action.

Second, each junior club paying per capita dues might have representation by at least one delegate to

P.-T. A. Passes Resolution Of Thanks to Newspapers

The Parent-Teacher council of Atlanta passed the following resolution at its final meeting Thursday:

Whereas, the P.-T. council of Atlanta at the end of its fiscal year wishes to acknowledge most gratefully its indebtedness for cooperation from innumerable sources;

And whereas the Atlanta newspapers have at all times been our loyal friends, and through their representatives have been unfailing in their courtesy and generosity, we wish to acknowledge that without the publicity given us by the newspapers the work done by our organization would lose much of its force. Therefore be it

Resolved, that we express our sincere appreciation of the great service rendered the council by the newspapers of Atlanta; and be it further state or general federation conventions.

Third, the age and eligibility for membership in junior clubs is a matter for the individual club to settle.

Fourth, programs should be broad in scope and worked out by the juniors themselves.

Fifth, contests and prizes stimulate interest in junior work.

Club Programs.

First, the discussion developed the desirability of a well balanced program, amusement, education, culture, music and business.

Second, aids to the formation of a good program: (a) development of a service department with a list of speakers for expenses only and one for a small fee; (b) a greater use of federation outlines; third, have program as planned that the principal speaker has the full time allotted.

Propaganda: First, great care should be taken that the right kind of propaganda be distributed and the wrong kind avoided; second, do not give out your club directory indiscriminately.

Business: (a) Make programs attractive; (b) don't have the business cut and dried; (c) encourage the club members to participate; (d) give verbal reports but file written copies.

Cure for club poverty: First, dues high enough to enable the club to carry on its work without assessment; second, the consensus of opinion seemed to be that club dues are generally too low; third, we approve of the general federation plan for magazine subscriptions as a means of additional revenue for the club.

Georgia Leaders.

Georgia is very proud in having her beloved state president, Mrs. Archibald Brantley, of Blackshear, at the biennial national council, for she is a woman whom all Georgia club women love to group about for wise counsel and sound principles of club work. She served on the open forum committee.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson is as much at home in the general federation as in her beloved home organization. Her civic work for the general federation is so well known and valued that her name is but to be mentioned rather than about her interest and energy. Her new office as director for Georgia is spoken of among her coworkers as a worthy recognition of her leadership and magnetic personality.

General federation problems will be discussed Friday morning, including uniform by-laws, leadership, federation spirit and relations between the general federation and the club. Friday afternoon, Miss Grace Ecker-Poole, United States department of agriculture, will make an address on "Rural Women and the Federation."

and Mrs. Henry M. Dunlap will speak on "Rural Problems."

PLEA MADE FOR WAGES TO WOMAN OF THE HOME.

Detroit, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The women of the United States must move ahead of economic conditions, Doris Stevens (Mrs. Dudley Field Malone) told members of the mid-western conference of the National Woman's party at the close of the first day's meeting at Bloomfield Hills, here.

Miss Stevens, as she had been presented to the conference, and finished an impassioned plea for recognition of the woman of the home as a wage earner: to be, in fact, paid wages. One of her hearers interrupted to ask what would happen under a wage earning condition for the wife in the home of the working man, who was just able to make ends meet.

Cannot Wait for Change.

"We cannot wait for economic systems to change to fit the demands we are making," Miss Stevens replied. "The greatest thing we can do is to pass on to the next generation a clean slate, with all the old discriminating laws against women cleared away by a federal amendment giving men and women equal rights."

Miss Stevens' talk followed close upon one by Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, of Wilmington, Del., in which she had held up to ridicule the difference between the insurance rules of many of the companies of the United States as between men and women, declaring that while men would get their small injuries, the only way women could collect was through death.

Women are discriminated against as equals of their husbands in property and legal rights in most of the states of the union, Mrs. Burrita Sheldon Matthews, Washington, D. C., head of the legal research bureau, told the conference.

"Before the woman marries, the law presumes she is able to look out for herself," Mrs. Matthews told the conference. "After marriage, the law in some states requires her to go through a complicated court procedure to determine her capacity to carry on business. Before marriage, a woman can contract and assume all kinds of liabilities and obligations. As soon as she marries, the law of some of the states takes her out of the world and she is left with persons under a 'disability.'"

Mrs. Halloway's reelection was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Council at the final meeting of the year Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock a Phillips & Crew hall. The other officers elected were: first vice president, Mrs. D. C. Shepherd; second vice president, Mrs. Leo Suddarth; secretary, Mrs. R. E. Jones; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. E. Mrs. George M. Halloway was reelected president of the Atlanta Parent-Teacher council at the meeting Thursday morning.

Loyalty was the keynote of Mrs. Walker's address concerning the memorial. "The day of personality has gone," said Mrs. Walker, "and the day of purpose has dawned and we must see it and realize our obligation to our children and their children. She further pointed out the spirit of loyalty with the incident of Robert E. Lee, who was held prisoner at the end of the war, being proclaimed a hero not only by his men in gray but by the army in blue as well."

Mrs. Walker said that the pre-school circle should include all mothers and women interested in little children. Mothers with children up to six years of age and all kindergarten mothers.

The circles should be organized just as the other divisions of the P.-T. A. and they should draw up a constitution, the model to be found in the handbook for presidents. They should have a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer and each circle should join the state and national organizations.

A change in the constitution was voted to read as follows: The executive board shall be composed of one member from each ward in the city who must be a patron of the public schools. These members to be elected by the parents of the children in the ward. Do you intend to let more than two years in succession.

Mrs. J. M. Malone will entertain the pre-school circles at her home at 2:30 a. m. June 25.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. J. E. Andrews.

Under her inspirational leadership has been put over the ambitious broadening of the circle has brought to a successful close during the past year.

Mrs. Clifford Walker, national pre-school chairman, spoke on pre-school age women and the role of Stone Mountain Memorial circles.

Party of College Bous
En Route to Wedding
Robbed Near Waycross

Waycross, Ga., June 4.—A party of six college boys, traveling from Spartanburg, S. C., to Miami, Fla., where they will join a wedding party, were held up and robbed of all their valuables by three masked men, several miles north of Waycross last night. The party had traveled all day and were worn out with fatigue and when they stopped by the side of the road for a short rest they were held up by the men, they state.

While the men were covered with guns their pockets rifled and valuables were collected in a hat. The trio of holdup men stepped into an automobile in which they were riding and escaped.

The party was composed of Johnny Selzer, formerly of Monticello, Ga.; Ralph Smith, Frank Rogers, Francis Swings, T. J. Boyd and Lawrence Richardson, all of Spartanburg.

City and county police are searching for the men.

The Love Cycle

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

BY MILDRED BARBOUR.
Concerning the Action and Characters.

At Weston's request that he open his safe, Mansfield felt surprised but he rose nevertheless and obeyed.

As soon as the heavy door swung open, Mansfield found at his elbow the detective, whose name Weston had not mentioned.

Mansfield resented a trifle the way in which the former shouldered him aside and began coolly to examine the contents of the safe.

He turned to Weston with a question in his eyes, but his father-in-law grimly avoided his gaze and watched with interest the activities of the other man.

After a minute the latter turned around. He held in his hands a bulky package of which he made a cursory examination. With a smile he handed it to Weston.

"I think these are your bonds, Mr. Weston."

Mansfield fell back in sheer amazement; he could not believe his eyes and ears.

"Impossible," he ejaculated.

The detective eyed him coldly.

"But in my safe," demanded Mansfield, "how could they get there? No one knows the combination but myself."

"Exactly," the other agreed suavely, "and I understand from Mr. Weston that only you and he knew the combination of his safe."

"Do you intend to insinuate—" Mansfield was beginning hotly when his father-in-law interrupted him suddenly.

"You bluster about this, Mansfield; it's pretty evident."

"But you can't think—" stammered Mansfield agitatedly.

Mansfield's father-in-law told him grimly, "I know, I believe the evidence of my eyes. You were with me last night when I put these bonds in my safe, of which only you and I know the combination. This morning they are missing and we find them in your safe. Isn't that a pretty case?"

"I should say so," put in the detective, "if all crimes were as easy to solve as that, there would be no need for us fellows."

Mansfield shot him a furious glance.

"You keep out of this, will you. This matter rests between Mr. Weston and myself."

"No," said Weston quickly. "It's a case for the law."

Mansfield stared at him for a moment in blank astonishment.

"That's what you wouldn't see."

How Do They Do It?
Do their own housework—clad in a flapping kimono?
Exist for one day without a waste-paper basket in the kitchen?
Wear high-heeled slippers in which to do all their housework and cleaning?
Do their ordering of supplies over the telephone regardless of price and come out O. K. at the end of the week?

Educational Leaders To Conduct Discussions at Virginia University

The following educational leaders have arranged to conduct the series of round-table discussions planned by the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance in connection with its summer course to be given at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., June 22-July 10: Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of Georgia State College of Agriculture; Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College for Women; Dr. Meta Glass, president-elect of Sweet Briar college; Elizabeth Kemper Adams, educational secretary of Girl Scouts of America; Dr. Gladys Palmer, professor of economics and sociology, Hollins college; Miss Frances Sals, assistant secretary of Field Cooperative; Dr. H. ask your neighbor.

So many thousands of women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that there is hardly a neighborhood in any city, town or hamlet in this country where some woman has not found health in this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy. If you are suffering from some womanly ill, why don't you try it? For a great many years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring sick women of America to health and strength.

Flower Children's Carnival Slated Monday Evening

Approximately 60 of the most beautiful and attractive children of Atlanta are rehearsing for a magnificent flower children's carnival to be staged at the Atlanta Woman's club Monday evening, under the direction of Mrs. Charles LaFontaine.

The press department of the Woman's club will sponsor the entertainment, and hundreds of parents and friends who are interested in these bright and happy children will attend this beautiful spectacle. Members of the committee are: Mrs. John H. Hornady, chairman; Mrs. George Ripley, Mrs. George Turner and Mrs. J. R. McNeely.

Every flower of any note will be represented and every famous group ever imagined, as represented by children, will be seen upon the stage at this presentation. Fairies, nymphs, brownies, soldiers of the garden, whimsical Jonnie-Jump-Ups and every little imaginary creature will be characterized as playing among the millions of blossoms of summer-time.

Mrs. Joseph R. Bracewell will furnish the music for the delightful little dancers and never in the history of Atlanta, has a more beautiful entertainment been given. Special lighting will add to the effect of the various scenes and much attention has been given to the graceful and lovely costumes.

Little Mildred Adams is charming.

Ball at Biltmore Celebrates Opening of Coral Gables Office

The largest social event of the summer season was the brilliant ball given last evening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel by George E. Merrick, owner of Coral Gables, Florida.

This lovely affair was in celebration of the opening of the new Coral Gables office on Peachtree street.

Gathering together the married contingent as well as the younger social set, the Coral Gables ball last evening is of outstanding importance and a high water mark among the early summer affairs which have filled the days and evenings of the debutantes, young married set and school girls.

Beautiful decorations lent a charming atmosphere to this unusually lovely occasion and formed an attractive setting for the large assemblage of guests invited.

The general decorative scheme was carried from the ballroom through the private foyer and down through the corridor which leads to the grill room, where the buffet was served from tables which were elaborately decorated.

Jan Garber and his Coral Gables orchestra, "Atlanta's own orchestra," which is under contract with Coral Gables, furnished the music for the occasion.

Receiving with Mr. Merrick were: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Soda Rather Than Lye.

When drains or pipes are clogged with grease, boiling water and washing soda will do the trick; but avoid lye. The lye is apt to form soap of the grease and clog the drain more than ever.

The Fighting Ranger

BY F. J. McCONNELL
and
GEORGE W. PYPER

Novelized for Newspaper Serialization by
HORACE EATON

The horsemen the sheriff's posse had gone in pursuit of proved to be Buck's gang of rustlers, belatedly on their way to join their leader. As the car came up, the men of the posse had them all covered with guns, and secured their lasses.

Further down the road two men were coming toward them on foot. One trudged before the other, who had him covered with a revolver. The posse, with their prisoners, were waiting the arrival of these two.

"Sheriff, make these people let me go," Taggart cried, almost hysterical, covering at bay under the revolvers of Bud and Jack. "What right have they to hold me up—what's the idea here?"

The two figures on foot, now running, came up. The one behind with the revolver, hearing Taggart's miserable whine, shouted:

"Hold that man Taggart, sheriff—he's the man you want above all."

It was Terence, marching his prisoner, Buck, before him.

Taggart shivered in fear, but dared not move under the menacing muzzles pointed at him. Two of the deputies now flanked him.

Terence pointed accusingly at Taggart and shouted:

"There's your arch-criminal, sheriff—rustler—robber—fugitive—MURDERER—Spade Sinclair, who killed himself before Taggart."

All listened in amazement, as Terence went on:

"He drove John Marshall from the Bar M ranch and persecuted his daughter in the hope of possessing the Yaqui treasure found on it."

"Years ago, with the same lust for this gold, he killed my father."

"And it was Taggart—Spade Sinclair—who murdered Black Benwell. This girl's father, John Marshall, is innocent."

"It's a lie—it's a lie!" Taggart was shrieking.

"No it ain't—I saw you do both the killings," yelled Buck McLeod. "An' if you think I'm goin' to turn state's evidence now and try to save some of my own hide—you double-crossin' cur, after the way you figured to trim me—well, ye gotta another think comin'."

"Lies, lies, lies," Taggart continued to wail.

"Come on, Sinclair-Taggart," shouted the sheriff, "you'll have a chance to prove what's lies and what's truth before a judge and jury."

"If there's anything left of Taggart when you get through with him here, sheriff," Terence put in, "Uncle Sam wants it!"

From a battered card case Terence drew a card and handed it to the sheriff, who read aloud:

"Terence O'Rourke, U. S. Government Ranger—Texas."

By this time Mary had jumped from the car and came to Terence's side. The sheriff shook hands with him, and said:

"Of course Mary's father will be released at once, but we'll have to take this Stella Moutrose woman."

Mary gave a look of anxiety come over Bud Hughes' face. A wave of compassion swept her.

"Stella was—was playing the game in our cause—all the time, she cried. Bud gave her hand a hearty squeeze of appreciation, and turned away to wipe a tear from his eye with his coat sleeve.

Mary leaned against Terence joyously.

full, and his arm encircled her waist as Bud came running up.

"Hello, Bud," Mary hailed him. "Have you seen Stella today? How is she getting along?"

"Yes, I saw her," Bud answered. "She's getting along fine. She wasn't nearly as badly hurt as it seemed at first, and they say at the hospital she can come out in another week."

"An' then we're going to forget all the past and begin things over again. She's really all right, you know—down at bottom, only she got mixed up with the wrong kind of people."

When she comes out, she and I are going to hit for new territory and try to remodel the sorry scheme of things, as Omar would have said it."

They were walking toward the ranch house.

"We'll be awfully sorry to lose you, Bud, but of course we want you to be happy."

As they came up to the porch of the ranch house, Mary said:

"Oh, say, Bud, is daddy in?"

"Yes, he's in there," Bud replied. "Well, listen," Mary whispered into his ear. Bud's eyes grew big, and his lips broadened in a huge smile.

"What!" he cried. "Do you mean it?"

Terence stood smiling, embarrassed and nodded his head, and Mary said: "Yes, really," and sunk back into Terence's waiting arms.

"Well, I'll be blown," said Bud, the great benevolent smile on his face growing wider. "Kids, I'll tell him—be glad to tell him."

As he stalked into the house, Terence tucked Mary in his arms, and bent his head over toward her face till the magnetism of her lips became irresistible, and his own were drawn against hers.

"Terence, that's the eighty-seventh time today," she protested, but her eyes sparkled with happiness.

"And not the last either," said Terence with an enchanted smile.

Inside the house old Marshall was sitting at his desk, working over the ranch accounts, straightening them out after his long absence and the manipulations of Taggart. He had been a free man, back as boss of his own outfit, for two weeks now.

"Mr. Marshall," said Ben, entering. "Mrs. O'Rourke wants to see you."

"Who?" asked Marshall, looking up from his books.

"Mrs. O'Rourke, sir."

"And who is Mrs. O'Rourke?" Marshall asked, puzzled. "I don't know any such person."

"Bud, yes, you do, pardon me, sir," Bud corrected him.

A smile of sudden comprehension crossed Marshall's face.

"Oh, he's your father-in-law, is he?" he broke out onto the porch and found Mary still in Terence's arms.

The two of them gazing rapturously into each other's faces.

"Mary," Marshall called, in a stern voice, and frowning upon her as she responded.

"Am I to understand that, without even asking my consent or advice, you have run off and married this young fellow?"

"Well, daddy, I was sure you would approve of Terence," Mary pleaded.

"Then you have married him, have you?"

"Yes."

Marshall's frown changed to a smile, and he stepped forward with outstretched arms to both of them.

"I'm glad you knew I would."

But the last words of his sentence were smothered by Mary, drawing both father and husband to her in one loving embrace.

MRS. JUNE.

By Wallace M. Bayless.

And here is June, the month that poets praise.

As that which has the rarest of all days.

It's named for Juno, ancient goddess, was quite a busy girl, twist me and you.

She was the wife of Juniper and had to keep an eye on that quite frisky lad.

For though of all the gods he was the king And his wife Juno was a pretty thing.

Still, Juno was very much inclined to flirt With nymph or shepherdess or any skirt.

To keep his wife from sticking on his trail While he went off to keep tryst 'n some dale.

He gave to Juno certain things to do: He made her goddess over lovers true. She was supposed to keep a watchful eye

On common lovers such as you and I. Whenever folks got hitched who proved unfit, 'Twas done when Juno was obliged to quit.

This task she had to go and round up Juno And get him back upon his own front stoop.

The other job she had seemed rather queer. She had the handling of the atmosphere.

And yet, on further thought, that seems but fair. You can't have love unless you have hot air!

"Abie's Irish Rose."
(Atlanta Theater.)
The uproarious comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose," which has packed the Atlanta theater to the doors all this week with such continued demands for seats that this wonder-play will remain another week, is establishing its usual record for extended engagements here and elsewhere. Gales of laughter predominate in "Abie." Miss Nichols has not missed a chance for rapid-fire situations; not a place of characterization omitted. It is brightly written, with much comic invention displayed and taste shown; and the whole thing is said to be a hilarious, merry, fresh and healthful entertainment.

Lillian Walker.
(At Loew's Grand.)
Lillian ("Dimples") Walker, pretty and winsome as she was in the old Vitaphone days, is pleasing her numerous admirers this week at Loew's Grand, where she is appearing in person as the headliner of an excellent vaudeville bill. Miss Walker is presenting a clever playlet, "Home's the Thing," written for her by Irwin R. Franklin.

Miss Walker is a capable actress on the stage and demonstrates her ability convincingly in her vehicle. There are four other good acts on the bill.

"Seven Chances," with Buster Keaton at his best, is the Loew feature picture attraction.

"The Night Club."
(At the Howard.)
Raymond Griffith has certainly scored a hit in his latest Paramount picture, "The Night Club," which is being shown at the Howard all this week. In this picture Griffith is sun-posed to be a confirmed woman-hater—that is, until he meets the only girl, then he is very much a lover. Griffith is very ably supported in this picture by Wallace Beery, Louise Fazenda and Vera Reynolds.

Alex. Keese, conducting the Howards Symphony orchestra, offers "William Tell" as the overture.

Another pleasing part of the program is Virginia Bell, "the girl of a thousand faces," in a series of very graceful dances.

"Adventure."
(At the Rialto.)
Of the many big scenes in "Adventure," the film version of Jack London's story, which is at the Rialto theater this week, the one that stands out with impressive boldness appears in the first 300 feet of the film. It reveals the wild, dangerous life that this average white man leads on the magic, tragic South Sea islands. The center of the picture is around Tom Moore, Wallace Beery and Raymond Chandler. Charlie Chaplin's "I. A. M." is the comedy.

Aileen Pringle.
(At the Metropolitan.)
It often proves a nerve-racking job to make a picture act. And yet, Aileen Pringle, who is now appearing with Antonio Moreno and Dorothy Mackall in "One Year to Live," at the Metropolitan theater, says she takes it. In fact, she says she wouldn't do any other kind of work.

Aileen doesn't have to do any kind of work. Her father was one of San Francisco's wealthiest men, and her husband, Sir Charles Pringle, is one of the largest land owners in the world.

"MAD MAGICIAN"
CLEVER HEADLINER OF FORSYTH BILL
With a well-balanced bill, set off by an unusually clever closing act, the vaudeville program at the Forsyth theater for the last half of the week, which opened Thursday night, takes rank with the best offered Atlanta this season.

Frank Van Hoven, "The Mad Magician," stages a sketch that is head and shoulders above the rest of the acts.

He kept the audience in gales of laughter throughout his novel act, and the climax came when he disposed of two boys he had called out of the gallery by sending one of them back to his seat carrying a cake of ice, while another "captured" a bowl of water.

Joe Mendi, an 18-month-old baby chimpanzee, walked, rode his velocipede, whistled, and did everything that a 6-year-old child might do except talk. Garbed in a regulation suit of clothes, with shoes, collar and tie, he sat at a table and ate dinner with his knife and fork. He played a piano and furnished his own applause.

Thomas J. Ryan and Hattie Harrington took the audience back, for a short period, to the times when Irish song and dance acts were the Irish part of the day.

Jean Middleton, with her violin, fully justified her title of "Little Miss Melody," while in the opening act, Robertas and Deegan presented several novel acrobatic stunts.

The program also included the usual Asop's Fable and Pathe News reel.

ANN ARBOR RAILROAD SOLD TO WABASH LINE
Owosso, Mich., June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Ann Arbor railroad has been sold to the Wabash railroad, according to an official announcement made here tonight by J. E. Tussig, of St. Louis, president of the Wabash. The sale, he said, is subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Marked improvement in sales and profits is reported by the Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., for the first quarter of this year over the same period of 1924, enabling the company to acquire more than 10-12 percent of capital stock of its subsidiary, the Botany Worsted Mills. The opinion prevails in the textile industry that the turning point has been reached and higher prices will prevail.

Durant Motors, Inc., reports net income of $707,576 after expenses for 1924 against net profit of $271,522 in 1923. Dividends and miscellaneous income amounted to $2,172,311 in contrast to $4,403,304 the year before.

A new issue of $6,000,000 American Linseed company 6 percent coupon notes maturing serially to 1935 feature new offerings today. All maturities are priced at 100 and interest. The proceeds will be used to reduce debt. Other offerings included $3,800,000 Dade county, Florida, 5 percent school bonds yielding 4.15 percent; $2,250,000 Province of Alberta 1-1/2 percent gold bonds, priced at 98.17 and interest to yield 4.80 percent; and $2,500,000 Durant county, Florida, 5 percent bonds, yielding 4.15 to 4.30 percent.

An extra cash dividend of 5 percent on the common stock of the Packard Motor Car company was declared in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 3 percent, which brings total cash disbursements for the fiscal year ended August 31 to 20 percent. Alvan MacCaughey, president, said no further dividend action would be taken for the current fiscal year.

No action was taken by the Williams-Overland directors toward paying off accrued preferred dividends amounting to nearly $30 a share at their meeting in Toledo yesterday. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred.

An "over the counter" market developed today for the old Maxwell Motor A and B shares, in which value was suspended the New York stock exchange yesterday. The small amount of these shares outstanding, more than 60 per cent having been deposited under the recapitalization plan, was estimated at 100,000. The bid and asked prices, as compared with the New York exchange, were as follows: Maxwell A, 100; Maxwell B, 100.

A proposed stock dividend of 33.3 per cent on the common stock of the Anglo-American Oil company at a price of $1.00 per share was approved by the board of directors today. The dividend will be paid in cash or stock at the option of the shareholder.

Although directors of the S. S. Kresge company have considered a split up of the stock for sometime past, the plan has not yet been reached. Chairman Kresge said today that the company's expansion program calls for about 40 new locations this year.

Employment Conditions Normal
A State by State Survey
There is a job in this country today for nearly every person who wishes to work, a careful survey of the present employment situation shows. There is unemployment, to be sure, but it is not in large amount. And it should be noted that occasions when absolutely no idleness exists, except in case of lack of desire, are very rare. Also, while it is true that present industrial schedules are calling for a considerable amount of part-time work in some industries and localities, this fact is not to be over-deplored. It is a hopeful sign when employers keep a large number of workers on a part-time basis rather than lay off a comparatively few on full-time work.

Strong, Masterful Man of Pioneer Type Is Ideal of Queen Marie of Rumania

Admits She Has Never Met Him, But Says She Recognizes Him at Once
in Books and Movies.

This is the fifth of a series of articles by Queen Marie of Rumania written exclusively for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance. She gives in a frank and intimate way her philosophy of life, love and work. The series marks the first time that a reigning member of royalty has written under his or her own signature for a newspaper.

A QUEEN LOOKS AT LIFE

By Queen Marie of Rumania.

Chapter V.—My Ideal of a Man.
About men! Rather a vast subject and the question is from which side to take it—personally or in the abstract? I suppose the best will be as it has to be done in so many ways, to go ahead from my own experience. But even then so many faces rise before me, beginning with my father's that I hardly know how to begin.

My father was a sailor and very good looking into the bargain with the most astonishing blue eyes I have ever seen—real sapphires set in a face bronzed by sun and wind. As he was constantly at sea I saw little of him in my early childhood. He used to appear and disappear on our horizon something in the way of the Flying Dutchman. This gave him a special fascination, even imbued him with a certain mystery which was full of charm.

Later on, when his coming and going was less erratic, he lost some of his glamour and he could be cross and selfish like any other man. He was then discovered to be even more impatient, unfair. So there are advantages in being like the Flying Dutchman—here, there, everywhere, and never too much of him at a time. Yes, I decidedly advise the

"not too much" of any man. In general the "too much" is a mistake, and indications of any kind are to be avoided. The old-fashioned, cultivated her husband's selfishness, a precious and delicate plant, including her whole household to do the same, to the discomfort of everybody and certainly not to the improvement of the male creature to whom she was thus pandering.

It has often shocked and astounded me with a degree of energy, intelligence and time wasted by a household, the sole object being to keep one human being in good humor. Wife, children, servants, friends, neighbors all seem bound together in an often fruitless effort to make one man more comfortable than he had any right to be.

Like American Men.

He was fed with the most dainty bits, given the softest chair, the best table, people hush their voices when talking to him, his appetites, tastes, habits, fads were studied with religious care, he was never contradicted, never disturbed, never even allowed an opinion but him—he was given in fact an absolutely unobtainable share of all things.

I can only judge American men from what I have seen of them abroad, having a rest or come to investigate things from a business viewpoint. I have known several in this way and liked them very much. I always found them human, kindly and exceedingly faithful friends.

They used to like to imitate me, found their own spirit of enterprise in me. That was because I could talk about what interested them.

I for one like a man to be a man. I would even like him to be a master, a creature to be looked up to, admired, even obeyed. Oh, yes. Why not? He is in the world obeying. There is a delicious thrill in obeying some thing big and strong and kind—the ideal hero of a good old-fashioned English novel, the strong, silent, honorable man, the pioneer.

Known Ideal on Sight.

I have read books and books about him, and always I knew that would be my man of men. He gives me the right thrill. I feel him, so to say, in my blood and blood, in my spirit. When I read of him he is entirely fraternal to me. I want to be with him at his side, his follower, his companion, his co-worker, in fact his mate.

When I meet him in a film I recognize him, and again I feel that we ought to have met, that life ought to have brought us together. I want to ride through the great wastes with him. I want him to tell tales, swim rivers, climb lonely peaks, watch the setting sun, I want to share his tent, his fire, his food. I want to sit of an evening hand in hand with him and rest. I want to lean my head on his shoulder and hear him tell of his faithful heart.

But I never met my man of the great wastes, my pioneer. I have never tried to be a man's rival but I have tried to be his friend. I lived the delicate old-fashioned thrill of being mastered and overruled by a man—except by my old uncle, the German. But there was no thrill about that. It was like being terrorized by a schoolmaster and was not agreeable in any sort of way. It simply put me back up and made me feel revolutionary through and through.

I never cared for the German man's attitude toward women. He never in any way admits that she can be his equal.

The Kaiser himself is supposed to have said that women were meant for kitchen, nursery and church. This is the little chivalry in that way of disposing of women. The German man always wanted to be pandered to, considered as a thing apart that woman must be proud to be with.

When he was a splendid Siegfried riding through the forest on a snow-white steed with a magic sword in his hand, he was a man of the great wastes. But not at all when the lord and master allowed his tummy to expand, smoked strong cigars and sat in an armchair with a pint of beer at his elbow. No, thank you, that is not at all my ideal of the strong, silent man—the pioneer.
